Find out which one is right for you.

A career in professional services

Audit

If you're good with detail and as happy gathering data as you are teasing out what it all means, perhaps Audit is for you.

Working in Audit involves understanding all aspects of a business. State-of-the-art tools enable us to continue to deliver the assurance service excellence that is implicit in the Deloitte brand and which the financial community and public expect, as we serve the Financial Services and Public sectors.

Consulting

If you're confident, a natural communicator and keen to use your intelligence to influence all sorts of organizations, you should consider Consulting. You'll also need to be eager to go wherever your work takes you and not be put off by demanding projects or challenging deadlines. Deloitte consulting services clients from strategy to implementation and helps them solve their most complex business challenges, realize their greatest opportunities, and achieve meaningful, lasting results.

Risk Advisory

The focus of Risk Advisory is managing risk in a broad spectrum of areas — regulatory, contractual, financial, economic, and operational, from people and processes to technology and facilities. You would potentially be implementing internal audits, IT audit and cyber risk assessments.

Financial Advisory

If you can look at the business or financial pages and see the big picture, Financial Advisory could be your calling. You're comfortable with complexity and good at looking at problems from lots of different angles. You would be helping clients with restructuring, insolvency and valuation. You might also assess, measure, and minimize the impact of fraud on business. You could be handling M&A transactions, disputes, reorganizations, liquidation, and other related challenges.

Tax

If you're interested in combining insight and innovation from multiple disciplines with business and industry knowledge, Tax services could well be the answer for you.

Your work here would be about helping your clients manage their affairs, through offering practical advice and managing compliance across a broad range of tax matters. Our team supports companies in the areas of corporate and international tax, and individual tax. We provide tax advice in specialist fields such as transfer pricing, mergers and acquisitions, tax planning and the tax situations of financial services institutions.

Which accounting professional designation is right for you?

American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA)

About the Certified Public Accountant (CPA) designation

- The Uniform CPA Examination consists of four exams to sit (Regulation, Financial Accounting and Reporting, Audit, Business Economic Concepts) which can be sat independent of each other, in any order
- Exam sections consist of multiple choice questions and task-based simulation; all exams are between 3 and 4 hours
- Graduates are able to sit exams during eight months of the year
- Once you receive a passing score in a section, you have 18 months to pass all CPA examination sections before the score expires.

What you need to enroll in the American CPA

- To be a licensed CPA in the US and Bahamas, you require a university degree with at least 150 hours. A Master's degree in Accounting is a great way to fulfill the necessary requirements.

Association of Certified Chartered Accountants of the United Kingdom

About the Association of Certified Chartered Accountants

- The ACCA exams are divided into two levels: Fundamentals and Professional. The Fundamentals level is divided into two modules: Knowledge and Skills. The Professional level is divided into two modules: Essentials and Options. Both of the modules at Professional level have been set at the same ability level as a Master's degree. All students have to pass the three papers in the Essentials module. The Options module contains four papers, but you only need to complete two.
- If you already have a degree or qualification, you may not have to take all of the exams in the ACCA Qualification. These exemptions mean that you will start your studies at the right level for your knowledge and skill.
- Students pursuing the ACCA can study full-time or part-time around their work. There are options for self-study or to study with a tuition provider.

What you need to enroll in the ACCA

- A university degree — Associate's or Bachelor's (although this isn't required, we encourage it as a business or accounting degree will assist you with exemptions).

// Experience is life's best teacher. Reading and studying the information in your textbooks is important but being able to apply the knowledge to real life engagements is amazing. Deloitte's internship program gave me this opportunity. I was able to gain first hand experiences that ultimately made me a better student and prepared me for my career ahead.//

Ragin Martin, Graduate Program, Audit (2013 Intern)

// Involvement fosters learning. Deloitte's Internship Program creates an environment where interns learn hands-on how to bring what was taught in the classroom to life in the corporate world with proper guidance and techniques. An opportunity like this plus hard work is a recipe for a successful career.//
