China

The opportunities are enormous, but the risks are real

Whether you're a Canadian company thinking about expanding into China, or a Chinese company considering opportunities or raising capital in North America, you can't leave success to chance.

Venturing into a new market means competing with established businesses while dealing with unfamiliar rules and regulations – not to mention culture and language differences.

How you meet these challenges will make the difference between success and failure.

Deloitte can help companies cope with these challenges and achieve their business goals.

Deloitte – your link to business success in China and Canada

Why China?

With China aligned with World Trade Organization rules and international practices, its significance to the global economy has grown exponentially, and more areas are now open to foreign participation.

China is ranked 1st in the world in Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) – no other country claims more foreign investments than China.

As well, with a middle class population now over 300 million, with money to spend, China's per capita income growth rate is the second highest among the world at over 10%, and its economy is the 2nd largest in the world now.

With 1.35 billion people – a fifth of humanity – its potential as a consumer market has only begun to be tapped.

Deloitte

Deloitte is the one firm that can deliver comprehensive solutions to complex challenges. As far back as 1845, our founders began pioneering the development of professional standards. We have nearly 13,500 people and 21 offices in Greater China working on a collaborative basis to serve clients, subject to local applicable laws.

We have considerable experience in China and have been a significant contributor to the development of China's accounting standards, taxation system and local professional accountants. We provide services to around one-third of all companies listed on the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong.
