

Eye on the prize

Football Money League 2020

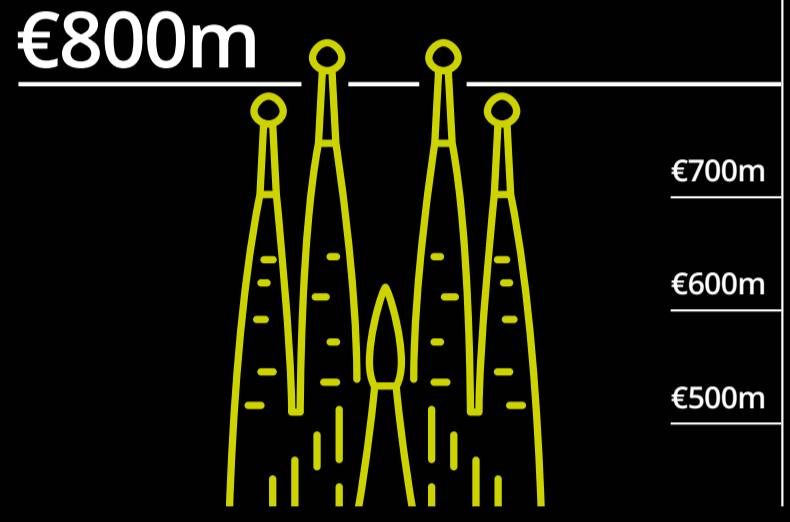

1	FC Barcelona	€840.8m
2	Real Madrid	€757.3m
3	Manchester United	€711.5m
4	Bayern Munich	€660.1m
5	Paris Saint-Germain	€635.9m
6	Manchester City	€610.6m
7	Liverpool	€604.7m
8	Tottenham Hotspur	€521.1m
9	Chelsea	€513.1m
10	Juventus	€459.7m
11	Arsenal	€445.6m
12	Borussia Dortmund	€377.1m
13	Atlético de Madrid	€367.6m
14	FC Internazionale Milano	€364.6m
15	Schalke 04	€324.8m
16	AS Roma	€231.0m
17	Olympique Lyonnais	€220.8m
18	West Ham United	€216.4m
19	Everton	€213.0m
20	SSC Napoli	€207.4m

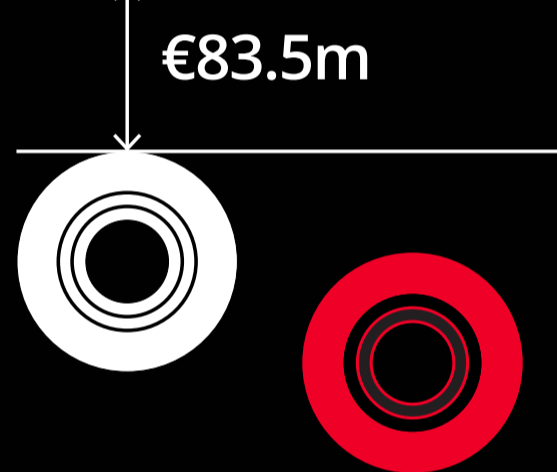

2020 Money League top 20 total revenue profile

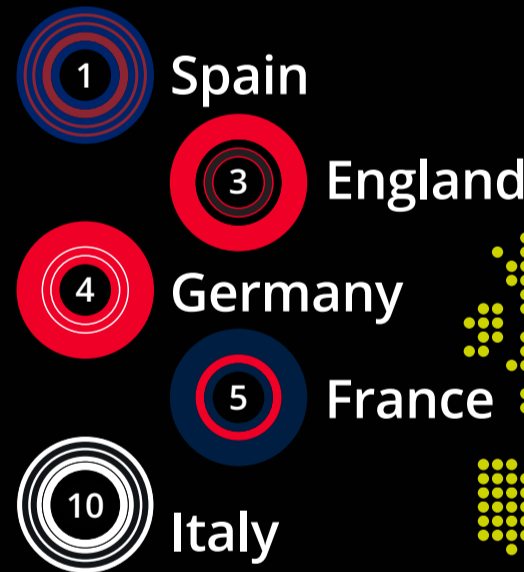

Congratulations to FC Barcelona who are the highest revenue-generating club in the world for the first time, and the first club to break the €800m barrier.

FC Barcelona has pulled away from domestic rivals Real Madrid and Money League rivals Manchester United, finishing top by the widest margin in Money League history €83.5m.

FC Barcelona, Manchester United, Bayern Munich, Paris Saint-Germain and Juventus were the highest ranked clubs in each of the 'big five' leagues

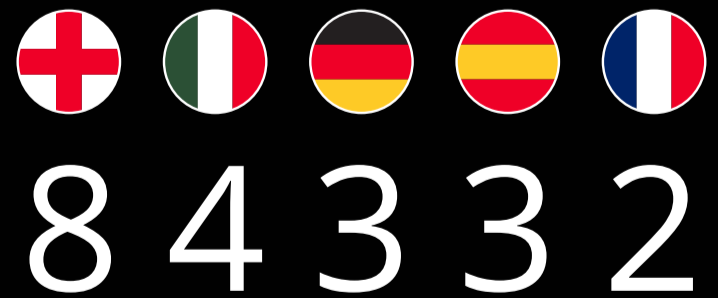

Participation in the Champions League final sees Tottenham Hotspur become London's highest revenue generating club for the first time since 1996/97.

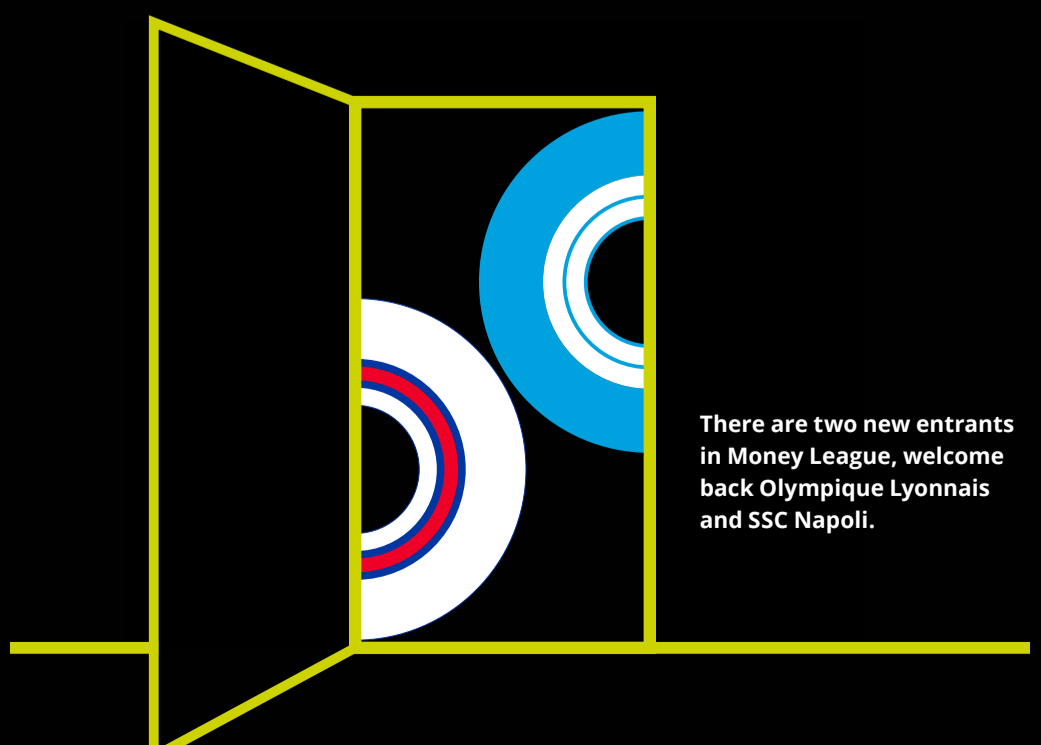

The signing of Cristiano Ronaldo helped Juventus return to the top ten in Money League, will his continued presence see them stay in the top ten next year?

The Premier League again has the most clubs in the Money League top 20.

Only 25% of Money League clubs have more Instagram followers than their "most followed" player.

There are two new entrants in Money League, welcome back Olympique Lyonnais and SSC Napoli.