For 170 years, objectivity and impartiality have been the cornerstones upon which our network is built. Without them, Deloitte could not cultivate confidence and trust in the markets, nor could we uphold the integrity of organizations. Our very Purpose would be beyond our reach.

There can be no margin for error. That's why every Deloitte professional, from the newest assistant to the most senior leader, must comply with well-established policies and procedures to ensure his or her independence. Regulators demand it. Clients need it. The public expects it. So, we deliver it.

The bigger picture

Independence and quality are essential to our integrity, our impartiality, our obligation to serve the investing public, and Deloitte member firms' ability to retain and attract clients.

Standards for independence are shaped by legislation, regulations, professional guidance, and public expectations. Maintaining independence, therefore, is both a matter of compliance with rules and regulations and a matter of appearance.

Protecting the public interest

Deloitte member firms comply with well-established policies and implement appropriate procedures to help safeguard their objectivity and independence. These policies and procedures help ensure member firms act in the interests of both the public and their clients, as well as protect our brand and reputation.

The DTTL Board of Directors has adopted robust independence policies and processes to help DTTL, Deloitte member firms, and their people safeguard their objectivity. DTTL requires all of its member firms to follow DTTL's independence policies and procedures, which address potential conflicts—within or among member firms—arising from the proposed acceptance of client engagements or proposed business or financial relationships.

DTTL's independence policies and procedures are designed to allow member firms to comply with independence standards and regulatory requirements to achieve excellence in professional performance. These policies and procedures are based, for the most part, on the Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants issued by the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants. When the national requirements that apply are more restrictive than the requirements in the DTTL policies, member firms must follow those requirements, as well.

Maintaining internal compliance

Deloitte member firms frequently serve the same clients in multiple jurisdictions. Each member firm considering whether to accept a new client or new engagement at an existing client must consider the independence needs of other member firms. For existing audit clients, a member firm must evaluate the independence implications of other member firms' relationships with that client, including the provision of non-audit services.

Each member firm has a partner assigned with responsibility for the independence quality controls in the member firm, including monitoring compliance with those controls. On an annual basis, all member firms report to DTTL that they have conducted procedures for determining that their firm and professionals are in compliance with DTTL's independence policies.

Leading through change

Deloitte member firms face a dynamic regulatory environment in which national rulemaking often has broad-reaching global implications. DTTL has independence resources that provide member firms with information and guidance on independence issues, as well as enabling technologies to help member firms comply with rapidly changing requirements. These DTTL resources continually engage with member firm leaders, as well as external professional and regulatory bodies, to advance objectivity and independence concepts.

This publication contains general information only, and none of DTTL, its member firms, or their related entities (collectively, the “Deloitte Network”) is, by means of this publication, rendering professional advice or services. Before making any decision or taking any action that may affect your finances or your business, you should consult a qualified professional adviser. No entity in the Deloitte Network shall be responsible for any loss whatsoever sustained by any person who relies on this publication.

For the convenience of the reader, a member firm of DTTL in a particular country is identified in the body of this report by the word “Deloitte” coupled with a country name (e.g., Deloitte Greece), in lieu of using the actual legal name of the member firm of DTTL in that country. In many countries, services may be provided by the actual member firms but could also be provided in addition by—or solely by—subsidiaries or affiliates of the DTTL member firm in that country, which are often organized as separate legal entities.

Specifically, with respect to the United States, Deloitte LLP is the member firm of DTTL and does not provide services. Services in the United States are provided by Deloitte LLP’s subsidiaries; including Deloitte & Touche LLP, Deloitte Tax LLP, Deloitte Consulting LLP, and Deloitte Financial Advisory Services LLP. All of these US entities are referred to in this publication as “Deloitte United States.” Certain services may not be available to attest clients under the rules and regulations of public accounting. Additionally, for the purposes of this publication only, individuals are identified by their name and the nomenclature discussed above for referring to a DTTL member firm, whether that individual is a partner, principal, shareholder, member, director, or employee of that DTTL member firm or one or more of its subsidiaries or affiliates (e.g., Paige Flanagan, Deloitte Ireland).
