Harness the power of Analytics and AI for contract management

With the pace of business becoming faster and the demands on in-house counsel continually growing, legal departments no longer have the time to spend countless hours manually putting together, negotiating, and managing contract portfolios.

Thanks to significant breakthroughs in technology, there is now a better way.

It's called dTrax®

The dTrax difference

dTrax is an AI-enabled contract management solution built by Deloitte's industry leading Analytics team in collaboration with legal experts.

1. Artificial intelligence

Using the power of AI, dTrax reduces cycle time and streamlines the contract management process by standardizing templates, automating first drafts of agreements, and managing the full negotiation process and workflow (including appropriate escalations and approvals) while consolidating all executed contracts in one place.

2. Leading analytics

Designed by Deloitte's leading Analytics team—rated number one by both Gartner and Forrester—dTrax unlocks the power of your contracts by extracting contract-related data and integrating it with your business data, allowing you to diagnose problems, identify opportunities, and drive value for your organization.

3. Configuration

dTrax is configured to meet your needs. Our team of legal subject matter experts work in conjunction with software developers and product designers to build an understanding of your unique processes and requirements, and understand how your organization functions. We then configure dTrax to fit in your organization in a way that accelerates the efficiency of your legal team.

4. End-to-end service

Its ability to be easily configured ensures your dTrax solution evolves in pace with changing technology and evolving business needs.
