Increase in data and information access is accelerating the pace of innovation. Technology is powering consumer health care engagement, enabling unprecedented access to health information and new ways to reach patients. Consumers are increasingly engaged and empowered health care consumers are demanding services and solutions that are convenient, personal and safe.