New date proposed for the application of the Modernised Customs Code

To no one's surprise, the Union Customs Code (UCC) that was supposed to replace the Modernized Customs Code (MCC) is not finished in time. The UCC needed to be ready before 24 June 2013. This is the date that the MCC will become applicable.

Now that the adoption of the UCC is delayed the European Commission sees no other choice then to propose a delay in the date of applicability of the MCC in a separate Regulation. The proposal for this Regulation sets a new 'deadline' for 1 November 2013. Whether this deadline will be met, remains to be seen. We will keep you updated on this subject and any new developments that may occur.

The full (draft) Regulation can be found in the below 'Related Links' section of this Customs Flash.
