SAT declares April 30th as a non-business day and defers the calculation of terms in days and the due date of taxes

On 23 April was published in the Official Gazette the Resolution of the Superintendence of Tax Administration number SAT-DSI-343-2021, which states that due the Labor Day holiday (1 May) falls on a Saturday and that the employees of the Superintendence of Tax Administration may enjoy the holidays that fall on weekend days the business day before or the business day that follows, as applicable; the Superintendent has declared Friday 30 April as a non-business day and deferred the calculation of terms in days and the due date of taxes.

Due to the above, the due dates for Value Added Tax, Solidarity Tax -ISO- and quarterly prepayments of the Income Tax are deferred to Monday 3 May 2021. Likewise within calculation of terms in days and the due date of taxes 30 April must not be included.
