

Green Frog Awards
The best Sustainability and Integrated

Reports in Central Europe & CIS
prepared for 2018

The Green FROG Award (GFA) was launched in 2000 in Hungary and has since then been embraced by other CE countries and the region of Russia and other countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States. Reports rewarded at national levels are then assessed at the regional level by an independent Jury composed of recognized experts.

“Companies use non-financial reporting to achieve a number of benefits that include: strengthening internal systems of strategic management in the company, strengthening the quotations in the market, building relationships, enhancing their image and increasing the transparency of the organisation. Awareness and the focus on ESG transparency is growing constantly, also in our region. Not only has the number of sustainability and integrated reports grown, but also their quality is constantly improving”.

What is a sustainability report?

A corporate sustainability report should be viewed as the calling card of an organisation. It begins a conversation with investors, clients, employees, business partners and:

- engages stakeholders to dive deeper into the culture and environment of the company and to ask questions
- presents the organization’s values and governance model
- demonstrates the link between its strategy and its commitment to a sustainable global economy.

Based upon the report, stakeholders should be able to gain an understanding of company’s impacts, activities and ESG performance.

In GFA, a good report means...

Sustainability performance & strategic commitments

Materiality

Content

Structure and creativity in communication (getting the message across)

Impact measurement

Financial and non-financial data integration
