What the data tells us about our global society

If the world had 100 people...

- 11 would be malnourished
- 68 would have access to basic sanitation facilities
- 46 would have access to the internet
- 28 have a city or area that is a good place to live for homosexuals
- 58 would have access to an independent media
- 63 would have access to piped water
- 87 would have access to electricity

Source: Social Progress Imperative