Compliance is one of the fundamental enterprise risks that companies have faced since long. Yet, it may still be the risk that commands the least attention from corporate leadership as it is too frequently seen as an imposition from outside, a necessary evil, a risk without a corresponding reward.

Businesses are subject to more laws and regulations than ever, and the laws and regulations address a wider variety of issues. Deloitte's enterprise compliance management framework is a coordinated approach to compliance spanning multiple businesses and geographies, enabled by people, processes, and technology.

Key activities

- Assist in developing high-level listing of applicable legislations by business and locations
- Identify and document relevant legal requirements
- Prioritize requirements based on nature and impact of non compliance
- Automation of compliance function

Development of repository for regular reporting and automation for monitoring compliance performance
