

Privacy Training Services

Increasing global trade, cross border transactions and stringent regulations are making privacy as one of the most spoken topics. People play a very vital role in successful implementation of privacy and data protection strategies, thus its critical to develop and maintain a privacy culture within an organizations. Deloitte's privacy training services intend to address the same.

Need for Privacy Training – Why now?

“Privacy” is a fundamental right (Indian Context)

- Law of the land

Privacy and Security have become key boardroom topics

- Governance

Major (Cyber) security breaches

- Resilience and Incident management

Changing legal environment and regulatory focus

- Compliance

Our approach to Privacy Training – What makes us different?

Hands-on

Not just theory but real-life scenarios which attendees may encounter in daily activities

Business Network

Deloitte's global network provides access to industry specific and international alumni group who can provide expert advice across enterprise and national borders.

Pragmatic

Focus on 'People' aspect and change management to enable a frame work within organisations that appreciates the privacy requirements

Training Content

Business focused content and material which will help designing workable solutions

Holistic

Connecting the dots between the compliance sides of privacy, the technical sides of security and the management side of overall data protection

Workable action plan

In discussion with the stakeholders our Faculty members can customize the standard approach to make it modular and tailored to requirements.
