

Streamlining and automating the right to work experience

GoVerify empowers new hires to self-authorise their right to work, ensuring global compliance for the employer. Through automation and a well thought out experience, gone are the days of photocopying, stamping and delaying the start to work.

Ensure your new hires have the right to work before day 1 with an easy to use, web-based solution, that enables users to verify themselves anywhere, anytime.

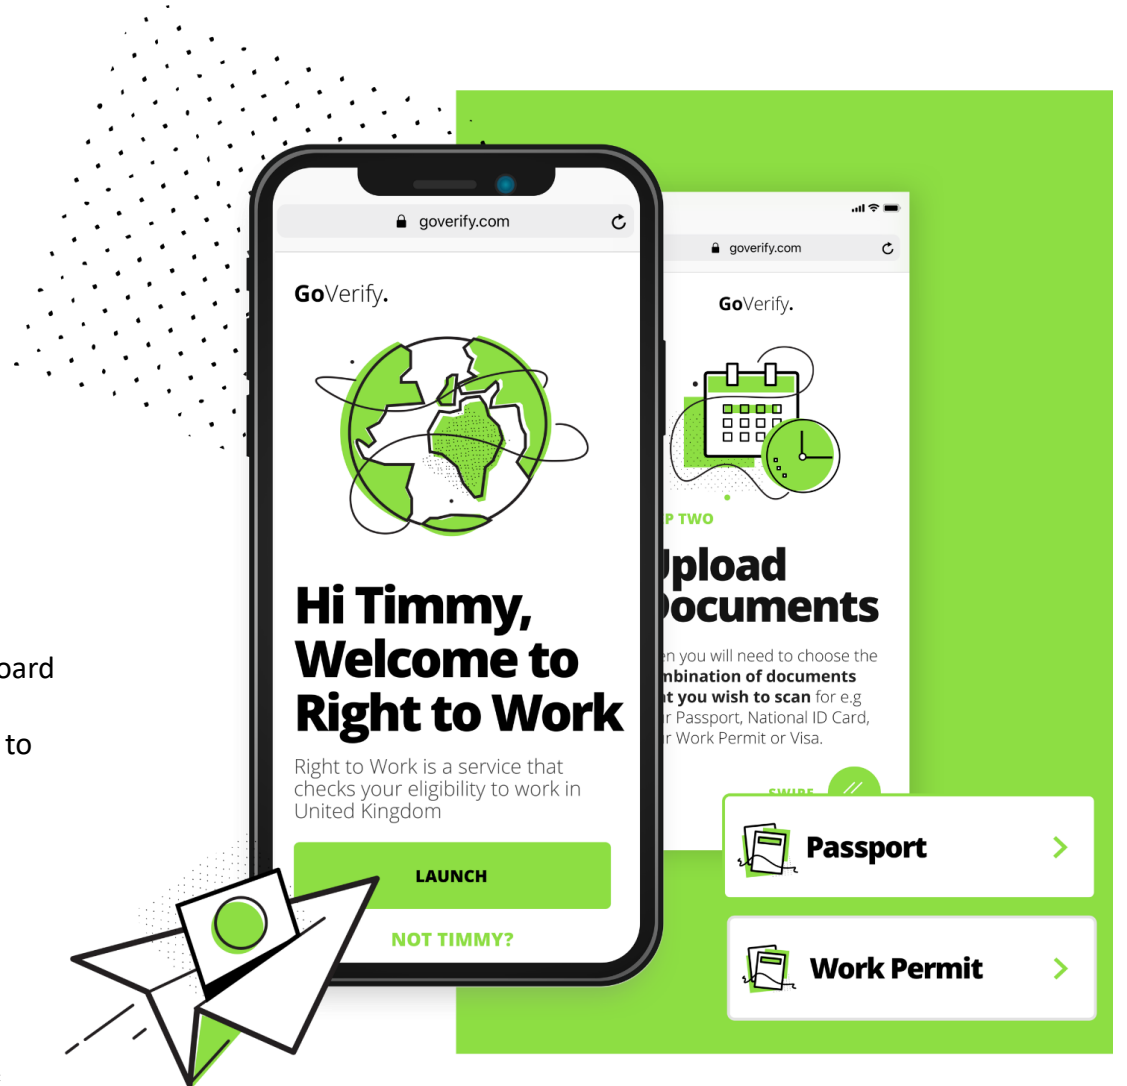

A powerful workflow tool supports the employers to monitor, track and report on checks.

Twice the power to verify the right to work. We have integrated automatic checks of over 4,600 document types from 195 countries with human experts in a hybrid approach, catching more fraud combined than either method alone.

Easily integrated with company systems, this technology provides a statutory excuse to onboard new hires, proving and documenting their right to work.
