

GRI™ Sustainability Reporting Services

Your challenge

Companies are under constant scrutiny on various aspects of their performance. Some of them are already informing stakeholders about their sustainable strategy and performance. Non-financial aspects of corporate performance are key differentiators among competitors and finding a structured way to present this information is becoming a top priority for most of the companies.

Do you ever ask yourself...

- What are the requirements for the establishment of sustainable management reports?
- How to present and structure information based on target audiences and media?
- How to ensure the relevance, accuracy and comparability of the information?

Our solution

Deloitte can assist you throughout the different stages of sustainability reporting initiative namely from the strategic analysis to the reporting and validation of the information presented to the various stakeholders of your organisation.

We can help you build a step-by-step approach towards sustainability reporting using the different levels of detail and sophistication of reports provided by international bodies such as the "Global Report Initiative (GRI)™".

We can also assess the quality of information and the approach adopted to establish your sustainability reports.
