

Appointments for filing before the INM in Mexico City

Impact – High

What has changed?

The INM will be making adjustments in the reassignment of appointments for the filing of procedures as of November 8, 2022

What does this change represent?

The processes for foreign nationals and companies will have an impact since the availability of appointments will be reduced. The INM has not yet confirmed the number of appointments that will be opening for filing, but a reduction in relation to the Institute's workload is expected.

- Implementation time: From November 8 until further notice.
- Who has been impacted by this closure? Foreign nationals and/or companies that have a pending process to file before the INM.
- Impact on processing times: Delay in filing times, obtaining cards and completing procedures.
- Recommendation: If you have any pending process to file before the INM, please contact your Deloitte Point of Contact to validate the necessary actions.

Context: The increase in humanitarian cases, proximity to the end of the year and the holidays have impacted the INM's operation with significant workloads, which has evolved in the reduction of appointments for users to file the immigration processes.

Do not hesitate to contact the Deloitte Point of Contact to review the specific information of your immigration process(es).
