

Personal Invitation Electronical Payment Services

February 11, 2016

Electronic payment services are trending. New payment methods have been introduced and are taking over the payment industry. It is possible to not only make payments via the original financial institutions (by using their app) but also via digital currencies (such as bitcoins), via the smartphone and tablet or via the assistance of new payment service providers.

These new developments also require the legal and tax regulations to develop. Otherwise regulatory gaps will appear because the law and regulations cannot keep up with technological advances. During our seminar we will discuss the trends within the payment market and the impact on legal and tax regulations. More in particular we will discuss what legislation should be taken into consideration regarding electronic payments and what the VAT treatment would be of electronic payments. In addition, one of our clients will share his thoughts on the regulatory impact of the new electronic payment services. Afterwards, it is possible to have a drink and socialize.
