Regional wellbeing disparities

Some of the indicators of wellbeing that could be used to measure outcomes under the Living Standards Framework serve to highlight regional wellbeing disparities. Here we illustrate some of these disparities for selected regions across the four capitals and overlaid on population density. The indicators used are illustrative only, to demonstrate the variation in wellbeing across New Zealand.