

Business is open to policy change, especially when it supports greater social cohesion

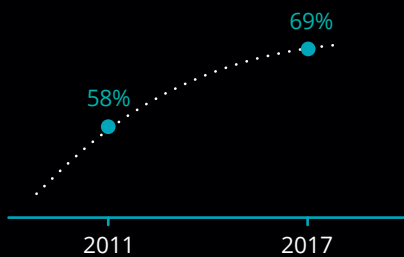

① Are the economic and social conditions that have led to Brexit, Trump and the rise of the right in Europe becoming an increasing issue in New Zealand?

What's changed

② Socio-economic wellbeing as an indicator of higher economic performance has been steadily rising since 2011

③ Do you support the concept of the a living wage?

What hasn't changed

④ The majority of businesses thought that the Government had a coordinated plan of action focused on raising New Zealand's economic performance

⑤ Support for putting more resource into providing 'better connections between science and business' to lift R&D stayed roughly the same
