Deloitte and Novosibirsk Region Investment Promotion Agency sign collaboration agreement

Moscow, Novosibirsk, 2 March 2017. During the official Deloitte Novosibirsk office opening ceremony, Deloitte CIS and the Investment Promotion Agency of Novosibirsk Region signed an agreement on investment project support.

The goal of the agreement is to establish a strategic partnership and long-term cooperation on investment projects in Novosibirsk Region.

The Investment Promotion Agency of Novosibirsk Region helps companies in various industries to implement investment projects. Such assistance includes explanations of the legislation of the Russian Federation and Novosibirsk Region and project feasibility studies.

As part of the agreement, Deloitte CIS professionals will provide regular consultations on various issues related to financial, legal and tax aspects of investment project implementation.

“We are pleased to have this opportunity to collaborate with the Investment Promotion Agency and are confident that the Agency's experience and understanding of the specific nature of work in the Siberian Federal District, coupled with the industry knowledge of our professionals and extensive international expertise will help us to develop the best solutions for investors and regional development institutions to effectively address the issues they face,” said Yulia Krasnova, the leader of the Deloitte CIS Novosibirsk office.

“Our region is interested in large scale investment projects and interaction with large investors is a priority for the Investment Promotion Agency of Novosibirsk Region. The work involves high-quality, deep expert evaluation of projects, and the Agency’s policy is to engage global-level experts. Deloitte’s consulting and audit competencies are well known around the world. Therefore, I think that collaboration with Deloitte will be very important,” emphasised Alexander Zyryanov, First Deputy General Director of the Investment Promotion Agency of Novosibirsk Region.
