The IASB expects to issue an exposure draft in the newly introduced 2014-2016 cycle of annual improvements in the second quarter of 2015. This exposure draft will carry over the one amendment originally expected to be included in the now discontinued 2013-2015 cycle. Apart from these changes to the annual improvements projects, there are no other changes in expected timing of the narrow-scope projects.

In addition to the principles of disclosure research project noted above, the expected timing of board discussion has been deferred for the following research projects:

- Business combinations under common control
- Discount rates
- Equity method of accounting
