

IAS issues amendments to IFRS 10, IFRS 12 and IAS 28 related to the application of the investment entities exceptions

Why has this amendment been issued?

The amendments result from three issues submitted to the IFRS Interpretations Committee (the "IFRS IC"). After discussing these issues, the Committee recommended that the IASB address the issues in narrow-scope amendments to IFRS 10 and IAS 28.

What are the changes introduced by the amendment?

Exemption from preparing consolidated financial statements

IFRS 10 provides an exemption from preparing consolidated financial statements for a parent whose ultimate or intermediate parent prepares consolidated financial statements that are in accordance with IFRSs and publicly available.

The amendments confirm that the exemption from preparing consolidated financial statements continues to be available to a parent entity that is a subsidiary of an investment entity, even if the investment entity measures all its subsidiaries at fair value in accordance with IFRS 10. This decision was based on cost-benefit considerations and the fact that the investment entity parent is required to provide disclosures under IFRS 12 Disclosure of Interests in Other Entities, IFRS 7 Financial Instruments: Disclosures and IFRS 13 Fair Value Measurement.

Consequential amendments have been made to IAS 28 to confirm that the exemption from applying the equity method is also applicable to an investor in an associate or joint venture if that investor is a subsidiary of an investment entity, even if the investment entity parent measures all its subsidiaries at fair value.

A subsidiary that provides services related to the investment activities of its investment entity parent

IFRS 10 requires an investment entity to measure its investments in subsidiaries at fair value. However, as an exception to this requirement, if a subsidiary provides investment-related services or activities, to the investment entity it should be consolidated.

The amendments clarify that this exception only applies to subsidiaries that are not themselves investment entities and whose main purpose are to provide services and activities that are related to the investment activities of the investment entity parent. All other subsidiaries of an investment entity should be measured at fair value.

Observations

The IASB explains in the Basis for Conclusions that this clarification is consistent with the requirement for an investment entity to measure all subsidiaries at fair value, including investment entity subsidiaries.

In the IASB's view, the clarification is also consistent with the requirement to consolidate those subsidiaries whose main purpose is to perform services that support the core investment activities of the investment entity parent or are ancillary to them. If the subsidiary is an investment entity, it is clear that such services are not its main activity as it would otherwise not meet the definition of an investment entity.

Application of the equity method by a non-investment entity investor to an investment entity investee

When applying the equity method, IAS 28 requires an entity to adjust an associate's or a joint venture's accounting policies if those policies differ from the accounting policies of the entity.

IAS 28 has been amended to permit an entity to retain the fair value measurement applied by an investment entity associate or joint venture to its interests in subsidiaries.

Amendments to IFRS 12 Disclosure of interests in Other Entities IFRS 12 states that it does not apply to an entity's separate financial statements.

The amendments to IFRS 12 clarified that an investment entity that measures all its subsidiaries at fair value should provide the IFRS 12 disclosures related to investment entities.

Observations

The IASB noted that although IFRS 12 stated that it does not apply to separate financial statements, it did not previously state its applicability to investment entities. The IASB decided to clarify that this scope exclusion does not apply to the financial statements of an investment entity parent that measures all its subsidiaries at fair value.

When do the amended requirements apply?

The amendments apply retrospectively are effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2016. Earlier application is permitted. If an entity applies the amendments early, it should state that fact.

An entity is only required to present the information required by IAS 8 paragraph 28(f) for the annual period immediately preceding the date of initial application of the amendments; this information is permitted but not required for the current or for earlier comparative periods.
