Ministry of Economic Development to impose investment obligations on importers

The Russian Ministry of Economic Development calls for imposing investment obligations on importers that bid for procurement of goods and services worth over RUB 100 million.

It is assumed that the purchasers will use a unified system to publish RFPs for procurement of imported goods and services worth over RUB 100 million.

The bidding importers will have to come up with investment initiatives. The bids committee will further determine the best proposals, double-check their conditions and award the contract to the winning supplier.

In the Ministry's opinion, the law should contain a list of imported goods / services and their prices which trigger additional requirements from the government.

The Ministry believes that this measure will secure the vehicle and machinery supply contracts that oblige the supplier to use Russian semi-finished steel products.
