Introduction

Dear clients and colleagues,

The Deloitte Asia Pacific Centre for Regulatory Strategy is pleased to share with you the key regulatory updates from our region for Q2 2023.

Regulatory developments relating to financial crime were prominent in Q2 2023. Three authorities in Hong Kong SAR updated their respective guidelines on Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorist Financing (AML/CFT). Major updates relate to (i) politically exposed persons (PEPs), (ii) digital identification system and (iii) beneficial owner in relation to a trust. Financial institutions are expected to further strengthen their risk-based approach to AML/CFT. In Vietnam, the Decree related to the law on AML, which covers, for instance, AML risk assessment, criteria for the determination of beneficial owners and details on high-value and complex transactions, was issued and became effective. AML/CFT-related regulations are also being updated in Indonesia, Japan, Philippines, Singapore and New Zealand. In Australia, the regulator announced the development of two national risk assessments relating to AML/CFT-related risks, which is expected to support the effective implementation of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) standards.

Data and technology is another area on which financial regulators have focused throughout Q2 2023. The Bank of Japan (BOJ) published a report summarising the results from a recently completed proof of concept (Phase II) on potential use cases and technical feasibility of central bank digital currency (CBDC), with the BOJ announcing its intention to set up a CBDC forum as one of its next actions.

Other virtual asset-related regulations have been in place. South Korea has approved the Act on the protection of virtual asset users that stipulate requirements for virtual asset service providers to comply with. Hong Kong SAR has finalised its regulation on provision of services to retail investors by virtual asset trading platforms (VATPs) that requires VATPs to have safeguards for customer protection in place. There were some developments associated with IT system/digital operational resilience in this quarter. In Malaysia, a policy paper on risk management in technology has been updated, under which financial institutions are encouraged to enhance their IT system/digital risk management, including cloud risk management.

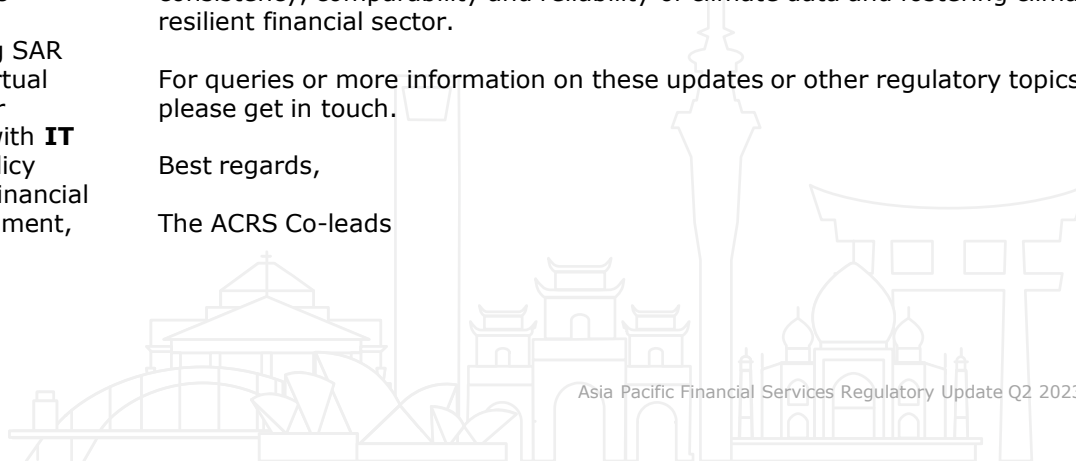

In Australia, the corporate regulator, ASIC, is inviting regulated entities to assess their cyber resilience by completing an online self-assessment survey. The survey will be one of the largest of this nature to be conducted, and ASIC aims to publish a report later this year with key insights, areas of action, and better practices. Supervisors are working on artificial intelligence (AI), too. Singapore has started multiple initiatives related to AI, which includes partnership with a private sector company to advance capabilities in generative AI technologies. On the risk management side, South Korea has developed guidelines on the use of AI in the financial sector with the aim of improving credibility of the use of AI in the sector.

Climate change and sustainability continues to be an area of focus throughout the Asia Pacific region. Australia issued a second consultation document on climate-related financial disclosures, following the finalisation of the International Sustainability Standards Board's (ISSB) new global sustainability standards, IFRS S1 and IFRS S2. In Hong Kong SAR, the Hong Kong Monetary Authority (HKMA) issued new guidelines for the second-round of climate risk stress testing. The updated guidelines enhance the testing framework to support comprehensive assessment of financial institutions' exposures to climate risks. Financial institutions will be encouraged to strengthen their climate risk management capabilities, including climate scenario analysis, accordingly. The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong also issued a consultation paper on climate-related disclosures that, once finalised, will require listed companies to disclose such information on a mandatory basis. In Singapore, the Monetary Authority of Singapore (MAS) launched its finance for net zero action plan aiming at, for instance, promoting consistency, comparability and reliability of climate data and fostering climate resilient financial sector.

For queries or more information on these updates or other regulatory topics, please get in touch.

Best regards,

The ACRS Co-leads

1	APRA	APRA finalises reforms aimed at strengthening recovery and resolution planning	On 18 May 2023, the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA) finalised new requirements and guidance on Prudential Standard CPS 900 Resolution Planning. Alongside CPS 190 Recovery and Exit Planning, which was finalised in December 2022, these reforms are aimed at strengthening the preparedness of the financial system to respond to crises and manage periods of stress. CPS 900 requires large or complex APRA-regulated entities to support APRA in resolution planning when notified by APRA. The objective of the resolution planning requirements is to protect beneficiaries, minimise disruption to the financial system, and provide continuity of critical functions in the event of failure of a regulated entity. APRA Chair John Lonsdale noted the finalisation of these standards is an important milestone in APRA's strategy to promote the stability of the Australian financial system. The effective date for CPS 190 is 1 January 2024 for banks and insurers, and 1 January 2025 for RSE licensees (superannuation trustees). CPS 900 will come into effect on 1 January 2024 and be implemented on a case-by-case basis. APRA finalises reforms aimed at strengthening recovery and resolution planning	Effective date for CPS 900: 1 January 2024 Effective date for CPS 190: 1 January 2024 (banks and insurers); 1 January 2025 (RSE licensees)

Following industry feedback and reports issued to the regulator, ASIC clarified aspects of existing guidance within the regime and provided new guidance in response to operational issues that have arisen. The updates to RG 78 include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• a clarification of the circumstances in which licensees may group multiple reportable situations into one report;</li> <li>• new guidance on the information to include when licensees describe a reportable situation; and</li> <li>• new guidance for licensees on ASIC's expectations when licensees are providing updates related to a reported breach.</li> </ul> The updates to RG 78 are intended by ASIC to reduce regulatory burden and support the use of data for regulatory and public reporting purposes. ASIC is also making minor changes to the prescribed form for lodging reportable situations, effective 5 May 2023. ASIC releases updated guidance for licensees on reportable situations   ASIC	Effective date of changes: 5 May 2023
3	APRA	APRA releases amendments on minimum capital requirements for PPF providers	On 19 May 2023, APRA released a letter in response to the consultation on proposed amendments to the minimum capital requirements for purchased payment facilities (PPF) providers. The letter outlines amendments to APS 610 Prudential Requirements for Providers of Purchased Payment Facilities (APS 610), that will align capital requirements for PPF providers more closely with the broader capital framework for other APRA-regulated industries. These amendments are considered an interim measure in advance of a broader APS 610 review, which will be included in more comprehensive reforms to the regulatory framework for stored-value facilities. APRA releases amendments on minimum capital requirements for PPF providers   APRA	-

4	AUS Treasury	Changes to Buy Now Pay Later regulation	On 22 May 2023, the Assistant Treasurer and Minister for Financial Services Stephen Jones announced reforms to the Buy Now, Pay Later (BNPL) sector. After industry consultation in 2022 on regulatory options for these products, the Commonwealth will amend legislation to regulate BNPL as credit products. Under the plan, BNPL providers will be required to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• hold Australian Credit Licences;</li> <li>• comply with Responsible Lending Obligations;</li> <li>• meet statutory dispute resolution and hardship requirements; and</li> <li>• meet a range of other requirements in relation to their conduct, and in relation to their products.</li> </ul> Address to the Responsible Lending &amp; Borrowing Summit   Treasury	-
5	ASIC APRA	ASIC invites Australian entities to assess their cyber resilience	On 13 June 2023, ASIC invited organisations to participate in an anonymous survey to help evaluate Australia’s cyber resilience in its corporate and financial markets. ASIC aims to bolster the cyber capabilities of Australian financial services and markets, expecting organisations to have risk management frameworks which adequately address cybersecurity risk and establish controls that enhance cyber resilience. This survey comes as APRA, in a letter to industry published 26 May 2023, re-emphasised the importance of using multi-factor authentication as an effective tool in preventing unauthorised access to information. The survey by ASIC has been designed to assess an entity’s ability to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• control organisational-wide cyber risks;</li> <li>• identify and protect information assets supporting critical business services; and</li> <li>• detect, respond to, and recover from cyber security incidents.</li> </ul> The survey will be one of the largest of this nature to be conducted, and ASIC aims to publish a report later this year with key insights, areas of action, and better practices. ASIC invites Australian entities to assess their cyber resilience   ASIC APRA clarifies expectations on use of multi-factor authentication   APRA	-
6	ASIC	ASIC calls on super trustees to improve regulatory compliance	On 26 June 2023, ASIC called on superannuation trustees to ensure incoming monies from customers are appropriately handled. This follows ASIC’s review into twelve superannuation trustees that found issues including the use of non-compliant accounts to hold money and a failure to retain funds for the required amount of time. These issues have been communicated to the trustees reviewed to ensure the appropriate changes are implemented to achieve full compliance. ASIC has also emphasised the role of auditors in assisting the timely identification and address of compliance issues. On 29 June 2023, ASIC also called on superannuation trustees to improve their efforts in consolidating duplicate member accounts. A separate ASIC review of nine trustees covering both industry and retail funds found ineffective processes were common, and that customers were paying unnecessary fees by holding multiple accounts. ASIC calls on super trustees to appropriately deal with member money when it is first received   ASIC ASIC warns super trustees to boost efforts to consolidate duplicate member accounts   ASIC	-

7	AUSTRAC	New guidance released on 'debanking'	On 27 June 2023, AUSTRAC released new guidance on 'debanking', the practice of financial institutions declining or limiting financial services to businesses across entire sectors that are assessed as higher money laundering and terrorism financing (ML/TF) risk. The guidance seeks to clarify the role of financial institutions and affected businesses in the appropriate balance of risk management and financial inclusion. Debanking has become more frequent over the past decade, and can have a devastating impact on legitimate businesses. The guidance issued by AUSTRAC aims to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>assist financial institutions in understanding regulator expectations when providing services to businesses considered higher risk; and</li> <li>encourage organisations in affected sectors to engage openly with financial institutions and demonstrate the steps taken to address relevant risks.</li> </ul> AUSTRAC discourages the indiscriminate and widespread closure of accounts across entire industries, as the effect of debanking increases the risk of ML/TF across the wider economy. New guidance released on debanking   AUSTRAC	-
8	AUSTRAC	New national risk assessments in development	On 27 June 2023, AUSTRAC announced the development of two national risk assessments to demonstrate Australia's understanding of its ML/TF risks. These assessments will support the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) in monitoring the effective implementation of the FATF standards. The risk assessments aim to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>identify, assess and understand the current and emerging risks facing Australia domestically and internationally;</li> <li>provide evidence for policy and operational responses to identified threats;</li> <li>provide guidance on the scale and impact of identified ML/TF risks; and</li> <li>provide representation across the collective understanding of all national authorities.</li> </ul> The terrorism financing national risk assessment is scheduled for completion later in 2023, and the money laundering national risk assessment in early 2024. New national risk assessments in development   AUSTRAC	Finalisation of the terrorism financing national risk assessment: Early 2023 Finalisation of the money laundering national risk assessment: Early 2024
9	AUS Treasury	Climate-related financial disclosure: Second consultation	On 27 June 2023, following finalisation of the IFRS S1 and IFRS S2 standards on 26 June 2023, the Australian Treasury published a second Consultation Paper on Climate-Related Financial Disclosures. The objective of the second consultation is to ensure the new requirements under IFRS S1 and S2 are "proportionately targeted and provide sufficient clarity as to the requirements of the regime." The Treasury is seeking views on whether the proposed positions on coverage, content, framework, and liability are workable. This follows a commitment by the Australian Government in 2022 to standardise and internationally align disclosure of climate-related financial risks and opportunities for large-listed entities and financial institutions. From November 2022 – February 2023, Australia reinforced this commitment by issuing two consultation papers relating to Sustainability standards and Climate-related financial disclosures. Climate-related financial disclosure: Second consultation   Treasury	Consultation ended 21 July 2023

1	The State Council – The People’s Republic of China	China establishes national financial regulatory administration	On 18 May 2023, the National Administration of Financial Regulation (NAFR) was officially launched and will serve as Mainland China’s new financial regulator. The NAFR has replaced the China Banking and Insurance Regulatory Commission (CBIRC) and is under direct supervision of the State Council. The new administration oversees and regulates the financial industry, with exception of the securities sector. The NAFR also takes over certain functions of the People’s Bank of China (PBOC) and the China Securities Regulatory Commission (CSRC). China establishes national financial regulatory administration	Launched 18 May 2023
2	CBIRC	2022 Annual Insurance Company Solvency Risk Management Assessment (SARMRA) Results	On 12 April 2023, the CBIRC released the results of the 2022 Annual Insurance Company Solvency Risk Management Assessment (SARMRA), emphasising its importance in improving insurance companies’ risk management levels and enhancing the industry’s ability to prevent and resolve risks. In 2022, the CBIRC conducted an on-site assessment of 70 insurance companies, resulting in an average score of 77.44, which is 1.41 higher than in the previous review. The results indicate that insurance companies have been consistently enhancing their risk management practices, and most of these insurers are establishing relatively comprehensive risk management frameworks and systems and suitable risk management mechanisms. However, the results also revealed shortcomings of certain insurers in risk management, such as failure to adapt their risk management system to their unique circumstances, a lack of attention to risk management from senior management, and insufficient personnel in the risk control department. Additionally, some insurers have insufficient “look-through” management of non-standard assets, inadequate development of risk management systems and a lack of proficiency in using risk management tools. As the next step, the CBIRC will continue strengthening the function supervision and the look-through supervision of the insurance industry. CBIRC released the 2022 Annual Insurance Company Solvency Risk Management Assessment (SARMRA) Results	-

The consultation aims to facilitate high-quality securities industry development, enhance the quality and efficiency of serving the real economy, modernise financial supervision, prevent systemic risks, and construct a modern capital market with Chinese characteristics. The CSRC proposed amendments relating to 6 aspects, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Implement the new Securities Law;</li> <li>• Strengthen requirements for shareholders and actual controllers of securities companies, and standardise corporate governance;</li> <li>• Establish appropriate incentive and restraint mechanism;</li> <li>• Supplement business rules, insert three new sections on securities underwriting and sponsorship, market-making transactions, and over-the-counter (OTC) business;</li> <li>• Strengthen compliance risk control, improve the internal and external restraint mechanism; and</li> <li>• Optimise supervisory methods and improve efficiency.</li> </ul> CSRC solicits opinions on “Regulations on the Supervision and Administration of Securities Companies”	Consultation ended on 30 April 2023

The consultation paper presents the results of the HKMA’s review of Hong Kong’s three-tier banking system and a proposal to simplify the system. In light of the growing complexity of the current three-tier system (consisting of licensed banks (LBs), restricted licence banks (RLBs), deposit-taking companies (DTCs)), the HKMA noted the difficulties in balancing the flexibility of entering the banking system and small depositor protection under the current system. Therefore, the HKMA is proposing to simplify the banking system from a three-tier system to a two-tier system, by merging DTCs with RLBs, resulting in the establishment of a new second tier. Meanwhile, LBs will remain unchanged as the first tier. The HKMA also proposed a 5-year transition period to invite and encourage existing DTCs to upgrade to RLBs or LBs. The consultation paper is also requesting feedback on requirements such as the proposed minimum capital requirements, minimum deposit size requirements and real-time gross settlement (RTGS) system arrangements. Consultation on Review of the Three-Tier Banking System Press Release: Consultation begins on Review of Three-Tier Banking System	Submissions are open until 25 September 2023

4	HKMA	Second Round Climate Risk Stress Test	On 21 April 2023, the HKMA issued new guidelines for the second-round climate risk stress test (CRST). Building upon the 2021 pilot CRST experience, the HKMA enhanced the CRST framework to comprehensively assess authorised institutions (AIs) exposure to climate risk. Additionally, the HKMA intends to strengthen AIs' climate risk management capabilities with the CRST. The enhancements were made in respect of various aspects, including climate scenarios, assumptions, assessment approaches and reporting requirements. Key enhancements are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Introduced a 5-year (2023 - 2027) short-term scenario to assess the impact of concurrent economic and climate-related shocks on participating AIs, and three long-term scenarios developed by the Network of Central Banks and Supervisors for Greening and Financial Systems (NGFS) covering orderly, disorderly and limited transition respectively.</li> <li>Revised assessment requirements, including to cover exposures generally considered less vulnerable to climate change, in addition to the highly vulnerable. Participating AIs shall follow a specified approach to segment their exposures. While the requirement to adopt a static balance sheet assumption remains unchanged, participating AIs will be allowed to modify their portfolio based on the long-term NGFS transition scenarios to incorporate their climate objectives; and</li> <li>Developed more detailed reporting standard for each scenario. The revised standards comprise a broader range of metrics to provide additional granularity concerning risk factors, business sectors, and geographical locations.</li> </ul> The second round of CRST will take place from June 2023 – June 2024, to align with the HKMA's supervisor-driven stress testing (SDST) cycle and reduce participating AIs' reporting burden. Circular: Climate Risk Stress Test Guidelines for Banking Sector Climate Risk Stress Test	Submission dates: Short-term scenario: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Participating AIs that are expected to conduct regular short term scenario stress testing in 2023 – 31 December 2023</li> <li>Other participating AIs – 30 June 2024</li> </ul> Long-term scenario: 30 June 2024

11	MAS	New York Fed and MAS Publish Results of Joint Wholesale Cross-Border Payments Research Study	On 19 May 2023, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York's New York Innovation Center and MAS published a research report detailing the results of the joint Project Cedar Phase II x Ubin+ ("Cedar x Ubin+") experiment. The experiment demonstrated that distributed ledger technology could support enhancements to cross-border multi-currency payments and settlements. The findings addressed three key pain points: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Interoperability and Autonomy: The experiment interlinked the distinct central bank currency ledgers, providing flexibility in the design and operation of each ledger to the respective central bank. This enabled payments to be safely executed across multiple ledgers without relying on a central clearing authority or shared central network.</li> <li>• Atomic Settlement: The simulated payments were settled atomically, meaning transactions were only settled if parts of the cross-currency payment chain were executed successfully. This improved the certainty of settlement, addressing concerns such as counterparty risks.</li> <li>• Near Real-Time Settlement: Each simulated payment scenario achieved end-to-end settlement in under thirty seconds on average, enabling participants to receive payment confirmation within seconds.</li> </ul> New York Fed and MAS Publish Results of Joint Wholesale Cross-Border Payments Research Study	-

13	MAS	Launch of Cross-border QR Code Payments Connectivity between Singapore and Malaysia	On 31 March 2023, MAS and BNM launched a cross-border QR code payment linkage between Singapore and Malaysia.
