8am – 9am: Registration and breakfast

Venue: Grand Hyatt Singapore

GST Breakfast Talk:“Directly in Connection With” and “Directly Benefit” and recent key GST updates

The expressions “Directly in Connection With” and “Directly Benefit”, which are used in various zero-rating sections for services, are commonly incorrectly interpreted for GST purposes and hence are almost always reviewed by the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (“IRAS”) during any audit process.

IRAS have substantially updated and revised their e-tax guidance on this subject on 26 October 2017 – knowing and applying the concepts of these expressions are as essential as before given that not understanding IRAS’ interpretation could result in an incorrect GST treatment being adopted or apportionment method being used which could result in underpayment of GST and possible imposition of penalties. On the other hand, you may seek a refund of the GST from the IRAS if you have incorrectly interpreted these expressions and hence wrongly standard-rated your services.

We invite you to join us to find out the following –

- What are the updates and revisions to the IRAS’ e-tax guidance which may affect the current GST treatment of your services?
- Is your cross-border intercompany service fee subject to GST or not?
- Can any of the new apportionment methods be adopted to achieve GST efficiency?
- Is your service agreement drafted adequately to support the zero-rating treatment of your services?
- What are the opportunities and risks to you?

In addition, we will bring you through practical examples on how the zero-rating conditions for services should be assessed and also provide you with updates on a change in the penalty regime for late submission of GST returns which will kick in with effect from April 2018 as well as the proposed introduction of GST on “Imported Services”.

We look forward to seeing you at our breakfast briefing. Do not wait too long to sign up. This will be our last rerun and seats are limited as we are restricted to 30 places for each session.

Who should attend?

CFOs, financial controllers, accountants and anyone who has responsibility for determining the GST liability of cross-border services arrangements.
