Macao

Exemption from entry ban for foreigners who have been in Mainland China over the last 14 days prior to entry

Government Information Bureau | 10 November 2020

With effect from 1 December 2020, foreigners who have been in Mainland China over the last 14 days prior to arrival may apply for an exemption to the existing entry ban. Eligible applicants include:

- Spouse or child of a Macao resident.
- Persons who have obtained the authorisation to stay in Macao.
- Students registered with local higher education institutions.
- Visitors to important business events, or participants at academic or professional activities.
- Persons registered with the authorities as non-resident workers; holding permits to enter Macao for work purposes; who are family members of such workers; or have obtained the relevant authorisation or met the eligibility requirements to stay in Macao.

Applicants allowed to enter Macao will still be required to comply with existing health monitoring measures.
