Basis
Singapore taxes on a quasi-territorial basis. Tax is imposed on all income accrued in or derived from Singapore and all foreign income remitted or deemed remitted to Singapore, subject to certain exceptions. Foreign income in the form of foreign dividends, branch profits and service income which is received in Singapore by tax resident companies is exempt from tax under certain conditions.

Capital gains and losses
Singapore does not tax capital gains. Under the current “safe harbour” rules, gains from disposal of ordinary shares (held for at least 24 months, minimum 20% shareholding prior to disposal) are exempt from tax. These safe harbour rules apply to disposals on or before 31 May 2017. Capital losses are not tax deductible.

Losses and capital allowances
• Trade losses may be carried forward indefinitely, subject to substantial shareholding test;
• Unutilised capital allowances may be carried forward indefinitely, subject to both substantial shareholding test and same business test;
• Trade losses and unutilised capital allowances may be carried back for 1 year, subject to a cap of $100,000 and compliance with substantial shareholding test. Unutilised capital allowances carried back are further subject to the same business test.

Capital allowances (tax depreciation)

Plant and machinery: Capital allowances are given for capital expenditures incurred on the acquisition of plant and machinery used for the purposes of a trade or business.

• Under normal rules, the initial allowance for plant and machinery is 20%, with the annual allowance computed on a straight-line basis over the prescribed tax life;

• Qualifying plant and machinery may be written off in equal amounts over 3 years when claimed;

• Alternatively, such expenditure may be claimed in 1 year if each item costs no more than $5,000 and the total claim for such expenditure does not exceed $30,000 for a tax year;
• Some items may qualify for the 1 year write off (e.g. computers and other prescribed automation equipment, generators, robots, certain efficient pollution-control equipment, certified energy-efficient equipment or approved energy-saving equipment or certain industrial noise and chemical hazard-control equipment).

Land intensification: The Land Intensification Allowance (“LIA”) is granted to businesses on the construction or renovation of qualifying buildings or structures if certain conditions are met.

• Initial allowance of 25% and an annual allowance of 5% on qualifying capital expenditure incurred on or after 23 February 2010;

• User of the building or structure must carry out one of the specified qualifying activities (i.e. manufacturing/processing of specified products/logistics sector and businesses carrying out qualifying activities on airport and port land) as its principal activity;

• The LIA is available on an application basis and approvals are granted from 1 July 2010 to 30 June 2020.
Intellectual properties ("IP"): Writing-down allowances ("WDAs") are granted for capital expenditure incurred on the acquisition of qualifying IP on or before the last day of the basis period for the 2020 tax year if the legal and economic ownership of IP lies with the taxpayer.

- Allowances are calculated on a straight-line basis over 5 years;
- Legal ownership requirement may be waived for IP rights acquired on or after 17 February 2006.

Productivity and Innovation Credit ("PIC") Scheme

- 400% tax deductions/allowances: Broad-based tax scheme granting a total of 400% tax deduction/allowance on the first $400,000 of qualifying expenses incurred during YAs 2011 to 2018 on each of these 6 qualifying activities:
  1. Research and Development ("R&D");
  2. Acquisition and in-licensing of IP rights;
  3. Registration of patents, trademarks, designs and plant varieties;
  4. Investment in approved design projects;
5. Acquisition and leasing of prescribed information technology and automation equipment;
6. Training of employees.

• Cash Payout: Businesses can opt to convert their expenditure in all 6 qualifying activities into a non-taxable cash payout, subject to an annual cap of $100,000. This is available at a conversion rate of 60% for YAs 2013 to 2018.

• PIC Bonus: The PIC Bonus gives businesses a dollar-for-dollar matching cash bonus for YAs 2013 to 2015, subject to an overall cap of $15,000 for all 3 YAs combined. This is given on top of the existing 400% tax deductions/allowances and/or cash payout under the PIC Scheme. To enjoy the PIC Bonus, businesses must, amongst other conditions, incur at least $5,000 qualifying spending in the year. The PIC Bonus will not be extended beyond YA 2015.
PIC+ Scheme
• Qualifying Small and Medium Enterprises ("SMEs") incurring PIC qualifying expenditure in YA 2015 to YA 2018 may opt for a new PIC+ scheme;
• Under the PIC+ scheme, the expenditure cap for qualifying SMEs is $600,000 per qualifying activity per YA. The combined expenditure cap will therefore be up to $1.4 million for YA 2015, and up to $1.8 million for YA 2016 to YA 2018.

Incentives
Various incentives are available for pioneer and expanding companies, financial services, asset securitisation, funds and fund managers, international maritime activities, international trading and R&D.

* Singapore operates a one-tier corporate tax system, under which corporate tax paid on a company’s profits is final. Any dividends paid are tax exempt in the hands of the recipient.

Note:
Lower rates may apply when there is a tax treaty in force. Singapore has concluded more than 70 comprehensive tax treaties as of to-date.
Personal taxation

Tax rates for resident individuals
Resident individuals are taxed at progressive rates ranging from 2% to 20% (22% with effect from YA 2017). All individual resident taxpayers will be granted a one-off personal income tax rebate of 50%, capped at $1,000 per taxpayer, for YA 2015.

Tax rates for non-resident individuals

• Employment income: Taxed at 15% (without any deduction of personal reliefs and allowances) or resident individual rates, whichever gives rise to a higher tax amount;

• Consultant income: Taxed at 15% on the gross income. Individuals may elect to be taxed at 20% on the net income after deduction of qualifying expenses.

• All other income: Taxed at 20%.

• A non-resident individual (other than a director) exercising short-term employment in Singapore for a period or periods up to 60 days within the tax year may be exempt from tax in Singapore.
Taxable value of employment benefits

All gains or profits, including all benefits (whether in money or otherwise), derived by an employee in respect of employment exercised in Singapore are taxable, unless they are specifically exempt or are covered by an existing administrative concession.

Examples of such benefits in kind:

• Air passage (home leave passage): Tax treatment depends on the status of the employee.
  i. For Singapore citizens and Singapore Permanent Residents (“SPRs”), the full cost of the home leave passage provided to the employee and his family members is taxable;
  ii. For expatriate employees, a tax concession is granted by assessing only 20% of the cost of the passage to tax. This concession is limited to 1 home leave passage each per year for the employee and his spouse, and 2 passages for each dependent child. The full cost of the passage is taxable for subsequent home leave passages or passages taken to countries other than the home country and also passages provided to other family members.
• Car benefit: An employee who is provided with a car by his employer is assessable to tax on the value of benefit enjoyed by him for the private use of the car.

• Medical and dental benefits: An administrative concession has been granted whereby the reimbursement by an employer of the medical and dental bills of an employee, the employee’s spouse and children is not assessable to tax, provided that the benefits are made available to all employees.

• Accommodation and related benefits:

Stock options/share awards: Gains will be treated as employment income sourced in Singapore to the extent that they are granted to the individual while he is exercising his employment in Singapore or hold an office in Singapore. Generally, the gains will be taxable upon exercise of the stock options or vesting of the shares. Taxable value is the fair market value of the shares upon exercise of the options or vesting of the share less the price paid for the share, if any. Where there are restrictions imposed on the sale of shares acquired (i.e. moratorium), the gains will be taxable upon the lifting of such restriction and the taxable value will be the fair market value of the share on that date less the price paid for the share.

Foreign employee who ceases employment in Singapore with unexercised/unvested stock options or shares granted during Singapore employment will be subject to tax on the gains under the “deemed exercise” rule.
The “deemed exercise” gains will be computed based on the market value of shares at one month prior to the cessation date or the date of grant, if later, less any price payable to acquire the shares. Where the actual gains from subsequent exercise or vesting of the stock options/share awards are lower than the gains on “deemed exercise”, the individual may apply for reassessment of the lower gains with documentary support within 4 years from the year of the application of the “deemed exercise” rule.

- Insurance benefit: Insurance premiums paid by the employer towards group life or group accident insurance coverage provided to employees are taxable if the employee is the named beneficiary or the employer is the policyholder and is under contractual obligation to disburse the insurance payout to the employee, employee’s nominated beneficiaries, or employee’s next-of-kin, in the event of a claim.

With effect from YA 2013, such premiums are not taxable under an administrative concession if the employer elects not to claim a corporate tax deduction of the insurance premiums.
Social security

- Every employer must register with CPF board and make monthly CPF contributions on its own behalf and on behalf of its employees. Employee’s share of the contributions is recovered through salary deductions;
- Only employees who are Singapore citizens or SPRs are required to contribute to CPF at a rate of up to 20%;
- Graduated rates may apply for the first 3 years when employee first attains SPR status.
- Employer’s statutory contribution rate to CPF is currently 17%, subject to a monthly ordinary wage ceiling of $5,000 and total annual wage ceiling of $85,000.
- It is proposed in the recent Budget that from 1 January 2016 onwards, the monthly ordinary wage ceiling will be raised to $6,000 and the total annual wage ceiling will be raised to $102,000. In addition, there will be increase in the CPF contributions for older workers above the age of 50 years.
Special schemes
Various schemes are available for resident/non-resident individuals such as the Area Representative Scheme, Not Ordinarily Resident Scheme, Supplementary Retirement Scheme and Angel Investors Tax Deduction Scheme.

Goods and services tax
Rates
• Standard rate of 7% is applicable to all supplies of goods and services made in Singapore unless the supply qualifies to be zero-rated or exempted for GST purposes;
• Zero-rated supplies include the export sales of goods and provision of international services (subject to satisfying certain conditions);
• Exempt supplies include provision of specified financial services, sale and lease of residential land/properties and supply of investment precious metals.

Registration, filing and payment
• A person is generally required to register for GST if total value of taxable supplies made in a 12-month period exceeds or is expected to exceed $1 million;
• Registration on a voluntary basis is possible if taxable turnover is less than $1 million;
• A registered person is required to file a tax return no later than 1 month after the end of the relevant accounting period, typically a calendar quarter;
• Any tax payable in respect of the relevant accounting period should be paid by the due date for that return.

Stamp duty
Stamp duty applies only to instruments relating to (a) stock and shares registered in a share register kept in Singapore and (b) Singapore immovable property. In particular:

a. Buyer’s stamp duty on acquisition of stock and shares is 0.2% of the market value or value of consideration, whichever is higher. Stamp duty reliefs are available, subject to conditions. Transfer of scripless shares listed on Singapore stock exchange is not subject to stamp duty;
b. Buyer’s stamp duty on acquisition of property is 1% for first $180,000, 2% for next $180,000 and 3% thereafter. Additional buyer’s stamp duty is payable by certain categories of buyers that purchase or acquire residential property (including residential land). The additional buyer’s stamp duty is 5% to 15%, depending on category of the buyer and is computed on the higher of the purchase price or market value of the property;

c. Seller’s stamp duty of 5% to 15% applies to industrial property acquired on or after 12 January 2013 and disposed of within 3 years, depending on the holding period. Seller’s stamp duty of 4% to 16% also applies to residential properties acquired on or after 14 January 2011 and disposed of within 4 years of acquisition.

Property tax

- Property tax is payable annually at the beginning of the year for all immovable properties owned;
- Immovable properties include Housing Development Board flats, houses, offices, factories, shops and land;
• Annual property tax is calculated based on a percentage of the gross annual value of the property as determined by the property tax department;
• The rates are progressive and for the year 2015 are as follows: 0% to 16% for owner-occupied residential property; 10% to 20% for non-owner-occupied residential property; and 10% for non-residential property.

Customs and excise duties

• Goods imported into Singapore are generally free of customs or excise duties, subject to the following exceptions:
  – Excise duties are imposed on intoxicating liquors, tobacco products, motor vehicles, and petroleum products;
  – Customs duties are imposed on some intoxicating liquors;
• With effect from 23 February 2015, excise duty rates on intermediate and premium grade petrol has increased by $0.15 and $0.20 per litre respectively.
• Export duties are not levied on goods exported from Singapore.
