

Deloitte Legal and Conception X: Using the brightest minds to solve tomorrow's business challenges

Deloitte Legal is the exclusive legal and professional services partner of Conception X.

Our involvement has enabled the programme to widen its reach and offer a greater pool of ideas for clients to draw upon.

Conception X: helping business access the brightest minds

Conception X is a programme that enables UK universities to become incubators and help the brightest PhD students create deep tech start-up enterprises based on their research. Focusing on original technology based on scientific advances and discoveries ('Deep Tech'), students receive advice and practical support from mentors – including Deloitte Legal – to identify and increase the chances that real-world applications of their research are commercially successful.

Focusing on Deep Tech

Deep Tech has the potential to transform communities, business and society. Conception X is a programme designed to create the perfect ecosystem for the brightest PhD students to experiment in fields that will shape the future of multiple industries.

Deloitte Legal: solving tomorrow's problems today

Deloitte Legal is collaborating with Conception X because we believe that answers to tomorrow's problems can, through new research, be identified today.

Mentors from our team will work closely with teams of PhD students to refine their research ideas and understand application areas for their nascent technology.

We are confident that Deloitte Legal's involvement will increase the number of successful start-ups resulting from Conception X.

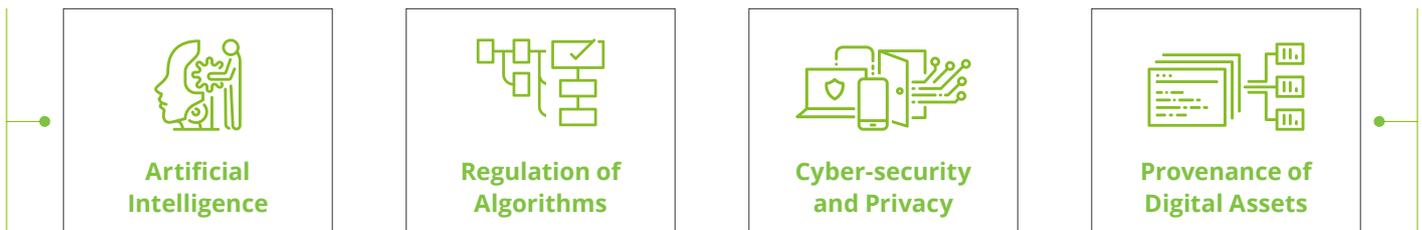

It will also allow us to connect our clients with the UK's brightest students, enabling these clients to benefit from innovative thinking about cutting edge technology.

The legal industry: connecting for impact

By working with the students, Deloitte Legal mentors will develop a deep understanding of their research topics, as well as potential new technologies and its uses. The mentors will then use their insight to consider how this research may influence the future of the legal industry: either to facilitate business or to disrupt. This could include exploring novel legal issues which must be considered as important in tomorrow's business landscape.

There are a breadth of deep tech research areas that impact the legal industry. Examples include ensuring algorithms adopt strategies that are not unlawful; the creation and implementation of blockchain-based identity management systems and using AI to analyse company structures to suggest optimum productivity.

Areas of likely focus could include:
