

Global perspectives for private companies

Plans, priorities, and expectations

In September 2017 Deloitte Private polled nearly 1,900 executives from private and mid-sized companies in 30 countries about their expectations, experiences and plans for becoming more competitive in the current economic environment. Here are some of the most significant findings; access the full report online at dupress.deloitte.com/global-private-survey.

Two-thirds of executives surveyed said:

We are “very confident” or “extremely confident” about the success of our companies over the next 24 months.

46% say training is their most likely talent investment in the next 12 months

Nearly half of the respondents believe disruption from non-traditional competitors is likely in the next two to three years.

45% expect to hire more full-time employees in the next year

79% of private companies surveyed already rely on global markets for a portion of their revenue

42% say they are likely or very likely to acquire targets in the next year

26% say they expect to be acquired in the next year