Corporate taxation

Residence

A corporation (or other entity) is resident if it is incorporated in Hong Kong or managed and controlled in Hong Kong.

Basis

Generally, only Hong Kong-source income is subject to Hong Kong profits tax.

Taxable income

Profits tax is levied on the Hong Kong-source profits of businesses carried on in Hong Kong. In determining the source of profits, Hong Kong generally adopts the "operations test," which involves identifying the activities that are most important in generating the profits and the place at which these activities are carried out. Expenses generally are deductible to the extent they are incurred in the production of profits that are chargeable to tax. However, domestic expenses, capital expenditure and losses, taxes and other expenses not incurred for the purpose of producing profits are not deductible. If a company's profits are derived from both Hong Kong sources and non-Hong Kong sources that are not assessable to profits tax, expenses attributable to the non-Hong Kong-source profits are not deductible.

Taxation of dividends

Dividends generally are exempt from profits tax.

Capital gains

Capital gains are not taxable. However, gains on the disposal of assets may be subject to profits tax if the disposal constitutes a transaction in the nature of trade (a factual determination).

Losses

Losses attributable to a business that earns profits subject to profits tax may be carried forward indefinitely and set off against future taxable profits of the company. There are specific anti-avoidance rules to prevent the purchase of a loss company for the sole or dominant purpose of using the company's losses. Losses cannot be carried back.

Rate

Profits tax is levied at a rate of 16.5% (15% for unincorporated businesses) where the company is carrying on business in Hong Kong and the relevant income is earned in or derived from Hong Kong.

No

Holding company regime

No

Incentives

A profits tax exemption for offshore funds is available for specified transactions if certain conditions are satisfied. A concessionary tax rate is available for offshore business of reinsurance companies and authorized captive insurance companies.

Withholding tax

Dividends

There is no withholding tax on dividend distributions from a Hong Kong entity.

Interest

There is no withholding tax on interest payments from a Hong Kong entity.

Royalties

Royalty payments made to a nonresident are deemed to be taxable in Hong Kong if made for the use of, or the right to use, intangibles in Hong Kong, or outside Hong Kong where the royalty payments are deductible for profits tax purposes. The amount deemed taxable is 30% of the gross amount of the royalties paid, resulting in an effective rate of 4.95% (16.5% x 30%) (or an effective rate of 4.5% for a noncorporate person (15% x 30%)). If the royalty is paid to an affiliated nonresident for the use of intangibles that previously were owned by a person carrying on business in Hong Kong, 100% of the royalty is deemed to be taxable, resulting in an effective rate of 16.5% (15% for a noncorporate person).

HK

Real property tax

Property owners are subject to property tax on rental income derived from property in Hong Kong. Property tax is charged at the standard rate of 15% of the net assessable value of the property as determined by rent, service charges and fees paid to the owner, less an allowance of 20% for repairs and maintenance. A company that derives rental income from property is subject to profits tax and may apply for an exemption from property tax.

Social security

For employees whose monthly income is HKD 7,100 or more, the employer is required to deduct 5% (capped at HKD 1,500) as the employee's contribution to the Mandatory Provident Fund (MPF) scheme, and then pay an additional 5% as its own contribution.

Stamp duty

Stamp duty is charged on documents connected with the lease, sale or transfer of immovable property in Hong Kong, and the sale of shares. If the above are transferred at less than market value, stamp duty may be imposed based on the market value at the date of transfer.

Stamp duty on the transfer of Hong Kong shares is 0.2% of the value of the shares transferred, which is shared equally between the buyer and seller. An exemption may be available for an intragroup transaction if certain conditions are satisfied.

The rate on the lease of immovable property is 0.25% of the total rent payable for a short-term lease (one year or less); 0.5% of the annual or average annual rent for a one to three-year lease; and 1% of the annual or average annual rent for a lease exceeding three years.

The maximum ad valorem stamp duty on the sale and conveyance of property is 8.5% of the value of property transferred. In addition, for any residential property acquired between 20 November 2010 and 26 October 2012, a Special Stamp Duty (SSD) ranging from 5% to 15% is levied if the property is sold within 24 months of purchase. For any residential property acquired on or after 27 October 2012, a SSD ranging from 5% to 20% is levied if the property is sold within 36 months of purchase. In addition to ad valorem stamp duty and SSD, a Buyer's Stamp Duty (BSD) at a flat rate of 15% applies to residential property if it is acquired by any person (including a limited company) except a Hong Kong permanent resident on or after 27 October 2012.

Transfer tax

No

Other

Other levies include betting duty (25%-75%) and the air passenger departure tax, which is levied on all air passengers departing Hong Kong (HKD 120).

Anti-avoidance rulesTransfer pricing

There are limited provisions in the tax law governing businesses carried on with closely connected nonresident persons.

Thin capitalization

There are no thin capitalization rules in Hong Kong, but the deduction of interest expenses is limited, especially with regard to interest paid to nonresidents.

Controlled foreign companies

No

Disclosure requirements

Certain related party transactions must be disclosed in the profits tax return.

Compliance for corporations

Tax year

The tax year starts on 1 April and ends on 31 March of the following year. The basis period of tax computation is the accounting year ended in the tax year.

Consolidated returns

Hong Kong does not allow groups of companies to file consolidated returns and there is no group loss relief for members of a group of companies.

Filing requirements

Tax returns are issued annually on the first working day of April for companies to report their profits in the accounting year ended in the previous tax year, which ends on 31 March. Companies whose financial years end between 1 December and 31 March normally are granted an extended period within which to file their tax returns. Upon receipt of the tax return, assessments are raised. Companies also must pay a provisional profits tax for the following tax year, at a rate of 16.5% of the current year's profits. This payment is credited against the final profits tax liability. Any excess payment will be refunded. The same applies for unincorporated businesses.

Penalties

Penalties may be imposed for failure to comply with the Inland Revenue Ordinance. The Commissioner of Inland Revenue has authority to institute prosecution, to compound or to assess additional tax (which is a form of penalty) in respect of the offense.

Rulings

Taxpayers may request an advance ruling from the tax authorities on the application of provisions of the Inland Revenue Ordinance. An advance pricing arrangement program was introduced on 2 April 2012.

Personal taxation

Basis

The Hong Kong personal income tax (salaries tax) covers all income arising in or derived from Hong Kong from an office, employment or pension. Interest income earned by an individual is exempt from tax in Hong Kong. Capital gains on financial transactions also are effectively exempt from tax.

Residence

Foreign residents who visit Hong Kong for no more than 60 days in a tax year (from 1 April to 31 March of the following year) are not liable to salaries tax on their employment income. Employees who already have paid tax of substantially the same nature as Hong Kong salaries tax in any territory outside Hong Kong are exempt in respect of income derived from services rendered in that territory outside Hong Kong.

Filing status

A married couple may opt for joint or separate assessment.

Taxable income

Individuals are taxed on their total Hong Kong income from employment, less deductible expenses, charitable donations and personal allowances. The source of employment income is determined by a number of factors, including, but not limited to, the place where the contract was negotiated and concluded and where it is enforceable; the residence of the employer; and where the salary is paid. Income from non-Hong Kong employment is deemed to be sourced in Hong Kong if it is attributable to services rendered in Hong Kong. Directors' fees paid to directors of a company, the control and management of which is exercised in Hong Kong, are chargeable to salaries tax irrespective of where the director resides. Taxable income includes commissions, bonuses, cost of living allowances, stock option gains, awards, gratuities, allowances (including those for education) and other perquisites derived from employment. Dividend income is not taxed, but gains from the exercise of share options are taxable.

Capital gains

Capital gains are not taxable in Hong Kong.

Deductions and allowances

In arriving at assessable income, the only deductions permitted are expenses that are wholly, exclusively and necessarily incurred in the production of assessable income. For general expenses, the scope for obtaining deductions is very limited. Allowable deductions include mandatory contributions to a recognized occupational retirement scheme, self-education expenses, home loan interest, elderly residential care expenses and donations to approved charities.

Rates

Personal income is taxed in Hong Kong at progressive rates. The marginal tax rates range from 2% to 17% (on chargeable income less personal allowances), with a cap at the standard rate of 15% (on chargeable income without deduction of personal allowances).
