

Switzerland

Diego Weder
Director
Tel: +1 212 492 4432
diweder@deloitte.com

Corporate taxation

Residence

Companies with their legal seat (registered office) or place of effective management in Switzerland are considered resident for tax purposes.

Basis

Resident companies are taxed on their worldwide income, except for profits derived from foreign branches and foreign immovable property, which are tax-exempt. Nonresident companies are taxed on permanent establishment/branch income and/or immovable property located in Switzerland.

Taxable income

Corporate income tax is levied on a company's net profits, which consist of business/trading income, passive income and capital gains. Foreign-source income is included in taxable income, but relief is granted for dividend income from qualifying participations. Business expenses are deductible in computing taxable income. Gains and losses from the conversion of financial statements in a functional currency into CHF are disregarded for tax purposes.

Taxation of dividends

See under "Participation exemption."

Capital gains

There is no specific capital gains tax levied at the federal level. Capital gains on the sale of assets are treated as ordinary income (and losses are deductible), regardless of how long the assets have been held. If assets are sold to a shareholder or related corporation at a price below market value, gains may be reassessed for tax purposes. Capital gains derived from the sale of a participation of at least 10% in a company (whether resident or nonresident) benefit from participation relief if the participation has been held for more than one year.

Losses

Losses may be carried forward for seven years and may be set off against any income or capital gains. The carryback of losses is not permitted.

Rate

Tax is imposed at both the federal and cantonal/communal levels. The federal tax rate of 8.5% is levied on net income (since income and capital taxes are deductible in determining taxable income, the effective tax rate is 7.8%). Taking into account both the

Investment basics

Currency

Swiss Franc (CHF)

Foreign exchange control

No restrictions are imposed on the import or export of capital.

Accounting principles/financial statements

Swiss GAAP. Financial statements must be prepared annually.

Principal business entities

These are the corporation (AG), limited liability company (GmbH) and branch of a foreign company.

federal and the cantonal/communal income tax, the combined effective income tax rate typically is between 12% and 24% for companies subject to ordinary taxation, depending on the place of residence.

Surtax

No

Alternative minimum tax

No

Foreign tax credit

Foreign-source income is included in taxable income, but relief is granted for dividend income from qualifying participations. Foreign-source income is taxed net of foreign taxes; no credit is granted for foreign tax paid (except for nonrefundable withholding tax on dividends, interest and royalties under an applicable tax treaty).

Participation exemption

Dividends generally are taxable for the recipient company, although relief is granted for dividends received from a qualifying participation in a resident or nonresident company. A participation is considered qualifying if the company owns at least 10% of the capital of the company paying the dividends or the participation has a value of at least CHF 1 million.

Holding company regime

The holding company tax privilege is granted to companies whose primary statutory purpose is the holding of participations (i.e. when at least 2/3 of the total assets consist of investments in subsidiaries or, alternatively, at least 2/3 of income consists of dividends) and that have no active trade or business in Switzerland. A company that enjoys the holding company privilege is fully exempt from cantonal and communal income taxes. The effective federal income tax rate on nondividend income is 7.8%.

CH

Incentives

The mixed company tax privilege is granted to companies with predominantly foreign business activities. A business activity is deemed to be performed predominantly outside Switzerland if generally at least 80% of the total gross income is derived from foreign sources and at least 80% of expenses are incurred abroad. Foreign-source income of a mixed company is taxed at a combined effective rate of typically between 9% to 11% (including federal tax). Swiss-source income is taxed at ordinary rates for cantonal/communal and federal income tax purposes. Incentives also are available for domiciliary companies, principal companies and finance branches. Tax holidays may apply.

Withholding tax

Dividends

Under domestic law, dividends are subject to a 35% withholding tax. Under the Switzerland-EU savings agreement, which provides Switzerland access to benefits similar to those in the EU parent-subsidiary directive, withholding tax is reduced to 0% on cross-border payments of dividends between related companies residing in EU member states and Switzerland when the capital participation is 25% or more and certain other criteria are met. In addition, many tax treaties provide for reduced rates for qualifying investments. The repayment of nominal share capital and capital contribution reserves is exempt from withholding tax.

Interest

Under domestic law, no withholding tax is levied on interest. Exceptions apply to interest derived from deposits with Swiss banks, bonds and bond-like loans, which are subject to a 35% withholding tax at the federal level. Interest paid to a nonresident on receivables secured by Swiss real estate is subject to tax at source. The 35% withholding tax and the tax at source levied under domestic law can be reduced under a tax treaty.

Royalties

Switzerland does not levy withholding tax on royalties.

Technical service fees

Switzerland does not levy withholding tax on service fees.

Branch remittance tax

No

Other taxes on corporations

Capital duty

No, but see under "Stamp duty."

Payroll tax

There is no general payroll tax, but payroll tax is levied on the wages of foreigners without permanent Swiss residence. For all other Swiss resident employees, wages are taxed as part of ordinary income.

Real property tax

Some cantons levy real property tax.

Social security

The employer generally is required to pay 50% of an employee's social security and pension fund contributions. The employer must deduct contributions from salary and remit the total amount to the social security authorities.

Stamp duty

A 1% stamp duty is levied on contributions to the equity of a Swiss company, whether in cash or in kind. A CHF 1 million exemption threshold applies to the issuance of shares. Reorganizations, such as mergers, spinoffs of corporate assets or transfers of a company's domicile from abroad to Switzerland typically are exempt from stamp duty.

Transfer tax

The transfer of securities by Swiss securities dealers is subject to a 0.15% tax on Swiss securities and a 0.3% tax on foreign securities.

Other

Corporate net wealth tax is imposed at varying rates depending on the canton and the type of tax privilege (typically between 0.001% and 0.5%). The net wealth tax may be credited against the income tax liability in many cantons.

Anti-avoidance rules

Transfer pricing

Switzerland has no formal transfer pricing legislation or documentation requirements, although all related party transactions with Swiss entities must be carried out on arm's length terms. In general, Switzerland follows the OECD transfer pricing guidelines.

Thin capitalization

Safe haven thin capitalization rules require a minimum equity ratio for each asset class (e.g. receivables may be debt financed by 85%, investments by 70%, intellectual property by 70%). In addition, safe haven interest rates apply.

Controlled foreign companies

No

Disclosure requirements

No

Other

Measures against treaty abuse may apply, including a base erosion test.

Compliance for corporations

Tax year

Accounting year

Consolidated returns

Consolidated returns are not permitted; each company is required to file a separate return.

Filing requirements

There is combined tax return filing for both federal and cantonal income tax purposes. A self-assessment procedure applies. Filing deadlines depend on the canton.

Penalties

Penalties apply for late filing or failure to file.

Rulings

Advance rulings may be obtained from the tax authorities on various matters, such as tax consequences of a planned transaction or the tax-privileged treatment of a company.

Personal taxation

Basis

Resident individuals are taxed on their worldwide income, except for profits from foreign businesses, foreign branches and foreign immovable property, which are tax-exempt. Nonresidents are taxed on Swiss employment income, business profits and profits attributable to Swiss immovable property.

Residence

An individual is deemed to be resident in Switzerland if he/she intends to stay in Switzerland permanently (as indicated by the location of the center of personal and business interests), if he/she is physically present in Switzerland for at least 30 days to carry out a professional activity or if he/she is physically present in Switzerland for at least 90 days (regardless of purpose).

Filing status

A married couple is assessed jointly.

Taxable income

Federal income tax applies to all income derived from compensation for work performed and income from capital (both real and movable property). Gross income from Swiss capital is taxable; income from foreign capital is taxed only after deduction of nonrefundable foreign withholding taxes. At the federal level, partial taxation applies to income from participations of at least 10%. Similar relief provisions have been enacted, or are being enacted, at the cantonal level. All cantons levy taxes on personal income, with deductions that vary from the federal deductions.

Capital gains

Capital gains and capital appreciation derived from the sale or realization of assets through the increased value of tangible and intangible assets of a business are subject to tax. Gains realized on the sale of shares or real property generally are not subject to federal tax.

The cantons levy a separate capital gains tax on the sale of real property, but no canton levies tax on personal capital gains from movable property that is not considered an asset of a business.

Deductions and allowances

Various expenses may be deducted in computing taxable income, including interest on loans, alimony and certain donations. Personal allowances are granted to the taxpayer, his/her spouse and dependent children.

Rates

Rates for federal tax are progressive up to 11.5%. Cantonal/communal income taxes also apply.

Other taxes on individuals

Capital duty

No

Stamp duty

No

Capital acquisitions tax

No

Real property tax

Some cantons levy real property tax.

Inheritance/estate tax

There is no federal inheritance and gift tax, although the cantons may levy the tax.

CH

Net wealth/net worth tax

There is no federal tax, but the cantons levy net wealth/net worth tax.

Social security

Federal old age and disability insurance (AHV/IV/EO) is mandatory for all employees. The annual contribution of 10.25% of total employee remuneration (with no ceiling) is divided between the employer and employee. The employer is required to deduct contributions from salary and remit the total amount to the social security authorities. Professional pension plans are mandatory for employees. Private pension plans are voluntary.

Compliance for individuals

Tax year

Calendar year

Filing and payment

Filing deadlines vary from canton to canton and apply for both federal and cantonal/communal taxes. Cantons tax at source the wages of foreigners working temporarily in Switzerland (i.e. the employer must deduct the tax from salary and remit it on behalf of the foreign employee to the tax authorities).

Penalties

Penalties apply for late filing or failure to file.

Value added tax

Taxable transactions

VAT applies to the sale of goods and services in Switzerland, and to the import of goods and services into Switzerland. Exports of goods and most services provided to nonresident recipients are, in principle, zero-rated. The acquisition and sale of intellectual property are VAT-able transactions.

Rates

The standard VAT rate is 8%. Certain goods and services are subject to a reduced rate of 2.5% and others (e.g. most banking services, insurance premiums, residential real estate, education, health and regulated Casinos) are exempt. A special 3.8% rate applies to the hotel and lodging industry.

Registration

Enterprises whose annual VAT-able turnover exceeds CHF 100,000 must register for VAT purposes.

Filing and payment

VAT returns generally must be filed quarterly, and the relevant VAT amount remitted to the federal tax authorities within 60 days after the end of quarter.

Source of tax law: Direct Federal Tax Law (DBG), Tax Harmonization Law (StHG), Withholding Tax Law (VStG), Stamp Tax Law (StG), VAT Law (MWSTG) and various federal decrees/ordinances and cantonal tax laws

Tax treaties: Switzerland has concluded more than 80 treaties

Tax authorities: Federal, Cantonal and Communal Tax Administrations

Deloitte refers to one or more of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited, a UK private company limited by guarantee (“DTTL”), its network of member firms, and their related entities. DTTL and each of its member firms are legally separate and independent entities. DTTL (also referred to as “Deloitte Global”) does not provide services to clients. Please see <http://www.deloitte.com/about> for a more detailed description of DTTL and its member firms.

Deloitte provides audit, consulting, financial advisory, risk management, tax and related services to public and private clients spanning multiple industries. With a globally connected network of member firms in more than 150 countries and territories, Deloitte brings world-class capabilities and high-quality service to clients, delivering the insights they need to address their most complex business challenges. Deloitte’s more than 225,000 professionals are committed to making an impact that matters.

This communication contains general information only, and none of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited, its member firms, or their related entities (collectively, the “Deloitte Network”) is, by means of this communication, rendering professional advice or services. Before making any decision or taking any action that may affect your finances or your business, you should consult a qualified professional adviser. No entity in the Deloitte Network shall be responsible for any loss whatsoever sustained by any person who relies on this communication.

Copyright © 2016 Deloitte Development LLC. All rights reserved.
Member of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Limited