

Here's what a Leadership Lab looked like for one client...

The C-suite of a major title insurance provider had a thorny problem:
How could they optimize ~$1M spent auditing lower-risk agencies while reducing their risk profile?

THE JOURNEY: Hitting the ground running, the group...

1

Reset strategy in real-time using Think Tank technology, which enabled them to comment on, vote on, and re-prioritize their legacy options

2

Challenged the traditional structure of their risk profile to generate and explore different options for improving their strategic position

3

Interacted with a bespoke prototype, a data tool that visualized risk areas so the team could focus their decisions on resource allocation

THE OUTCOME: The session had a lasting impact. The client...

Realized their paradigm of addressing risk by agency may be outdated, because states varied widely in legislation and fines

Aligned and assigned ownership on a four-month plan to confirm their hypothesis that they should view risk by state, not agency

Set a path to transform the company, beginning implementation in the third quarter of that year (pending validation process)

“The LCC team made it happen. They brought a proven methodology to help direct us to solve a business problem. We should have done this lab long ago.”

Here's what a Leadership Lab looked like for one client...

With a new CEO at the helm and an organization operating in silos, a government agency realized there was a disconnect between its strategy and its mission.

THE JOURNEY: Hitting the ground running, the group...

1

Got personal, in a facilitated exercise that asked them to share stories and values from their own life experience

2

Tackled their core business challenge incrementally, using personal experiences to launch into strategic conversations

3

Explored best practices and came to understand their customers' needs more deeply

THE OUTCOME: The session had a lasting impact. The client...

Emerging from the highly collaborative experience re-energized and ready to lead

Defined a new set of organizational core values that would transform the organization moving forward

It is good to know I can still learn, grow, and incorporate new leadership skills after 38 years ... I am as charged up and dedicated to embrace the new core values as I was when I first came aboard.

Facing shifts in the healthcare landscape, the CEO of a healthcare delivery system needed help adapting their strategy and organization to better reflect emerging models.

THE JOURNEY: Hitting the ground running, the group...

1

Envisioned the future of their organization in a collaborative, out-of-the-ordinary setting

2

Leveraged research, models, and methodologies to ground their discussion on how to operate in a shifting care environment

3

Engaged fully in the content and the conversation with the guidance of trained facilitators

THE OUTCOME: The session had a lasting impact. The client...

Developed a crystallized vision of how to run the organization in a rapidly evolving landscape

Identified the capabilities they needed to develop and/or acquire in order to succeed

Aligned on the key responsibilities and accountability measures that would make the vision a reality

It would have taken us six to nine months to share and achieve as much as we did in the Lab today.

A leading university had one of the largest applicant pools worldwide and a 20% admit rate. In a sea of candidates, how could Admissions pinpoint those who would succeed?

THE JOURNEY: Hitting the ground running, the group...

1

Engaged in a custom-designed Lab that harnessed Deloitte's expertise in leadership alignment and predictive analytics

2

Kicked off with an immersive exercise to create a vision for next-gen student leaders

3

Explored ways to identify and attract potential students aligned with that vision

4

Developed ways to alter the admissions process to integrate analytics as a candidate-matching and targeting tool

THE OUTCOME: The session had a lasting impact. The client...

Hired an admissions associate dedicated to overseeing the revamp proposed in the Lab session

Followed through by testing and piloting the program with an eye toward full-scale implementation

“This is the smartest, most professional meeting I have ever attended in my 30-year career.”
