Calling all road warriors

Travel advice from an alum, plus save on your own travel

In the latest video in our alumni profile series, we caught up with Deloitte Consulting LLP alum Carol Margolis, CEO of Business Travel Success, Inc. and Founder of Smart Women Travelers. Here are a few of her useful travel tips and check out Carol's full profile for more.

- Always be identifiable. Have a business card of yours and your hotel's with you when heading off for a jog. Put a couple of business cards inside your luggage in case it's lost and inside jacket/coat pockets in case they're left behind.
- Use hotel closet hangers in efficient ways. On the bottom of your trousers so the wrinkles get pulled down by the weight and as clips (when turned sideways) to close hotel curtains that won't stay closed.
- Learn a bit about the city you're visiting. Ask the hotel concierge for interesting, locally-owned restaurants and nearby events, research the city's history and culture. Becoming a part of a city, even for a very short time, really enhances the business travel experience.
