

5 conversation starters for Audit Committees and management on the work of the future

How proactive is management at sensing “work of the future” opportunities – whether from automation, talent platforms, or other new ideas?

What is management’s level of dialogue across the C-suite on the work of the future – CFO, CHRO, CIO, and others?

Has management conducted a future of work assessment for the organization?

Does management have a strategy for the open talent network? Is it viewed as a distraction or a disruption?

Is management engaging today’s workers as essential collaborators as you explore how and where work gets done? Is management using crowdsourcing?