

In this episode of the Resilient podcast, Trish Pierson, Information Security and Risk Management director at AbbVie, sits down with Resilient cyber series host, Deb Golden, to weigh in on the business side of cyber, the benefit of different perspectives, and leaving your mark by challenging the status quo.

Deb Golden:

I think it's safe to say cyber is everywhere. When I think about the things that keep me up at night, cyber is on the list more often than not. And not just because that's what I do for a living, but because it's so prevalent and impacts us all on both a personal and professional level. Welcome to the Resilient podcast, where we feature resilient leaders, real insights, and unfiltered stories. My name is Deb Golden, and I'm the US leader of Deloitte Risk & Financial Advisory's Cyber Risk Services practice, and I'm so excited to be hosting a new series on the Resilient podcast featuring my favorite topic, cyber.

And also, I'll be sharing risk executive stories that are breaking boundaries in the cyber world. I'll be talking with Trish Pierson, Information Security and Risk Management at AbbVie. She's also now the current deputy CISO.

Trish Pierson:

What is your risk tolerance level, and are you able to maintain that? You know, how do you communicate those risks back up to senior leadership so that they're bought into it, and how do you make sure that you're providing the right level of visibility without instilling fear?

Deb Golden:

I'm really looking forward to sharing her unique perspective on cyber with her background in engineering and audit—just to name a few. It's amazing to hear the impact life experiences can have on your perspective and leadership style, and I think you'll find Trish's background and what I call 'grit' truly inspiring. Whether you're in the cyber space or not, I think you're going to learn a lot about cyber, how you can carve your own career path, even if unconventional, and what it takes to be a resilient leader. I'm so excited to share this episode with you. Listen to the full episode on your favorite podcast outlet and stay in the loop for future episodes by subscribing to our mailing list on this site. Thanks for listening!
