Enhance higher education constituent expectations

Shaping culture and building a digital organization of the future are challenges for any industry. This is especially true in higher education, where a school is only as strong as the quality and reputation of its faculty, students, and staff, and where technologies can be outdated and disparate.

Today's leading colleges and universities employ faculty and staff who are digital consumers and expect the same on-demand experience at work as they do in their personal lives. Yet many HR departments have not delivered on this expectation, which can create a workforce that becomes disengaged.

What if faculty, staff, and student workers—your most valuable assets—had a single, consumer-grade destination to support their on-campus work lives? ConnectMe can help higher education institutions with every aspect of the employment “life cycle,” from new hire to retirement.

ConnectMe features:

- Mobile enabled .....  Allows immediate and stress-free access to HR content, designed to be as simple for the user as interacting with consumer-based websites and social media platforms.
- Personalized content .....  Advanced analytics measure user interactions to help improve content and processes based on what's important to your constituents.
- Enhanced service delivery .....  A cloud-based subscription product, configurable to handle instruction-specific content, processes, and nuances.
