Mandarin Oriental, Washington, D.C.

The global business landscape remains highly challenging as new technologies and modes of conducting business continue to emerge. It is important for audit committees to remain focused on their core responsibilities and assess whether specialized skills and knowledge are needed in select areas to address the increasing complexities of today's business environment.

At Deloitte's 2015 Audit Committee Symposium: Navigating a Complex Landscape, thought leaders from the regulatory, business, governance, and political arenas will highlight trends and developments likely to affect the audit committee's role in the coming months and beyond. The symposium will be structured to allow for the active exchange of ideas and leading practices with speakers and fellow committee members.

Everything changes
and nothing stands still.
