Move on what matters

Performance under pressure

There's never been more pressure on executives and their teams—whether working together or virtually—to perform at a higher level in a wider range of areas. In fact, it can be daunting to keep up, given the complexity and rate of change underway today in so many different parts of the business—especially when it comes to accelerating performance in the risk and financial environments. Today's executives need to move on what matters.

That's where Deloitte Risk & Financial Advisory's Client Accelerators can make a difference. Client Accelerators offer a portfolio of role-based experiences, customized, issue-based immersive labs, thought leadership, and other tools designed with one goal in mind: Preparing senior executives to execute through pivotal moments of their career so they are better equipped to manage the complexities of their roles, drive performance, elevate impact and value in their organizations, and navigate and adapt to a constantly shifting environment.

Is Client Accelerators for you?

The performance portfolio

Just as there is no single issue or most important area on which executives should focus in order to improve performance, there is no single approach that is appropriate for every leader or leadership team.

Performance labs

Our offerings and tools are customized for your specific needs and priorities—and are designed to help executives address their most pressing issues. Participants have opened the door to performance improvement through:

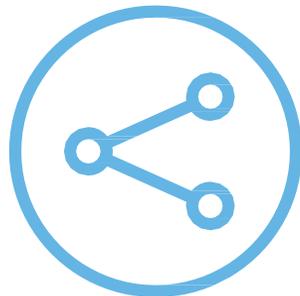

Breakthrough experiences

Domain-specific labs

Executive transition labs

Peer-to-peer forums

Breakthrough lab experiences

Breakthrough lab experiences for executive leaders and their teams are conducted virtually or at the Deloitte Greenhouse® innovative spaces, located in cities around the world. Whether it is virtual or in-person, participants in these experiences can benefit from:

- Professional facilitators to help leaders and their organizations navigate tough challenges.
- Demonstrated frameworks and methods drawing on design thinking, behavioral economics, group dynamics, and innovation theory
- Subject matter advisors with direct experience in the specific challenge, industry, or business

Immersive lab experiences

Breakthrough experiences

Breakthrough experiences can be custom-designed for specific leadership needs, challenges, and opportunities. They can span multiple topics to inform strategic conversations. Some examples include:

- Alignment Lab
- Innovation Lab
- Strategy Lab
- Transformation Lab

Domain-specific labs

Domain-specific labs are designed to “go deep” on specific topics that are driving the corporate agenda. They are based on shared experiences of peers in similar or adjacent industries and roles and can be combined with other labs.

Some examples include:

- Agile Internal Audit Lab
- Future of Cyber Spark Lab
- IPO Readiness Lab

Executive transition labs

Executive transition labs utilize a research-based framework developed specifically for executives assuming new roles. They are designed to help newly-appointed executives hit the ground running, and thrive in new roles, and are specifically geared to help executives map the first six months of their journey and accelerate their success. Some examples include:

- CCO Transition Lab
- CRO Transition Lab
- Controller Transition Lab
- ...and more for each major leadership role
