Why is Managed Forensic relevant?

Is Managed Forensic relevant to your organisation?

Given the latest trends of fraud and corruption in South Africa and globally, the sophistication that technology provides and the losses reported by organisations – the answer would always be YES.

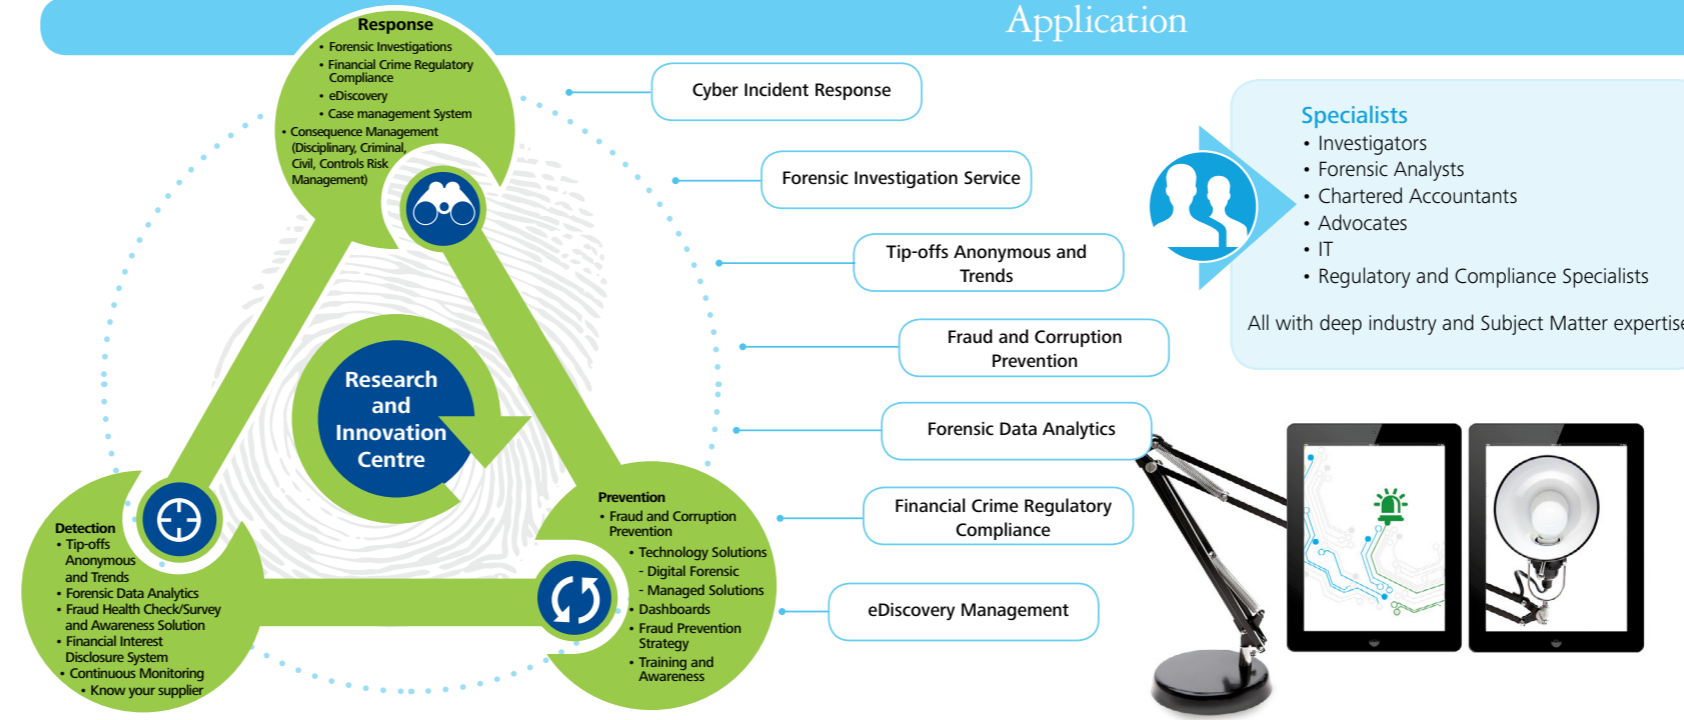

However, it also applies to organisations looking for:

- An "In Control" approach to fraud and corruption
- A strategic but practical and cost-effective response to mitigate the risks of fraud and corruption
- An enhanced governance environment through improved risk identification and controls
- Access to latest trends and developments to proactively mitigate the risk of fraud and corruption
- Specialist skills to supplement in-house capability
- Support in establishing an in-house capability
- Outsourced capabilities that allow for agility and flexibility, and access to the latest methodologies and tools
- Retainer approach to access specialist skills
